Welcome!

Issue 18 · 5 – 11 May 2018

We tune in to the soaps to see what drama befalls our favourite characters – but soaps are more than just snogs, slaps and secrets. They become part of our lives; a friend we look forward to catching up with; a cosy, familiar escape from our own personal worries. That's why, when soaps pull the rug out from under us, they can be the most important and powerful dramas on TV.

"Soaps can become part of our lives..."

This week's Corrie won't be cosy viewing, as we see the events leading up to Aidan taking his own life, and the effects it has on his friends and family. The questions about why Aidan does what he does will reverberate through the Street, but more crucially, they'll also reverberate through our living rooms. There are 84 men a week who take their own lives in the UK – and if this story can get us opening up about this taboo topic, then our time watching these episodes is an investment in our futures.

The Street shattered – as Aidan takes his own life

CORONATION STREET | ITV WEDNESDAY

TRAGEDY ROCKS THE CONNORS AS JOHNNY MAKES A DEVASTATING DISCOVERY...

The residents of Coronation Street are left in shock and utterly devastated this week, after Johnny discovers Aidan's lifeless body – and realises that his son has taken his own life.

For Aidan's loved ones and Corrie viewers alike, his death comes as a complete bolt from the blue. But as departing Weatherfield star Shayne Ward explains, Aidan has been struggling to cope with life – and it's a story that has been in the works for months, carefully plotted by Street bosses to highlight the important issue of male suicide.

"Everybody is going to be thinking and asking themselves, 'Were there any telltale signs that Aidan was suicidal?'" shares the actor. "You can't pin it down to one thing that has happened to him over the years. He has cheated, he has lost people their jobs, and he has had a hard relationship with his father. But it isn't always easy to spot that a person is struggling to cope."

Prior to his death, viewers will see that factory boss Aidan clearly has something on his mind as he sits alone, deep in thought. However, with his dad Johnny having finally set the wheels in motion to make his move to Spain with Jenny, there's a leaving do in full swing at the Rovers that Aidan has to attend...

MALE SUICIDE – THE STARK REALITY

Corrie boss Kate Oates explains why she felt compelled to tell Aidan's story...

Every week in the UK, 84 men take their own lives – with suicide the biggest killer of males under 45. Meanwhile, only 55 per cent of men who have experienced depression will tell anyone about it, hence why Corrie has teamed up with mental health charities Samaritans and CALM to encourage people suffering from depression and suicidal thoughts to speak out.

"With 84 men taking their lives each week, we can't afford not to talk about it," says Street boss Kate Oates. "Aidan's story, bravely and brilliantly tackled by Shayne Ward, is designed to give people who hide their feelings of desperation the chance to start a conversation – letting someone know what they are going through. We want to tell people that, however bleak they are feeling, there is always another way."

As the locals raise a toast, Aidan hands Johnny a farewell gift – and while his family and friends are ignorant of the fact that Aidan's mind is made up, he has decided in himself that this will be the last time he ever sees them. But just when Aidan thinks he is ready to say goodbye, life throws him an unexpected curve ball as it dawns on him that he is the father of Eva's baby.

"Toyah has been acting awkward around Aidan with regards to Susie [whom Eva has secretly given birth to and given to Toyah]," shares Shayne. "He knows that Eva has gone away to have a baby that he believes to be Adam's, so as far as Aidan is concerned, that door is shut. However, when Susie arrives, Toyah starts acting weirdly around him. He can't work out why, but there is a moment when he tells Toyah the baby is beautiful, and she gives him a strange look.

"Aidan thinks that's a bit odd, then there's a scene in the pub when someone goes to pass Susie to him, and Toyah steps in to break up the exchange," continues the star. "That's the second time she has acted weirdly around him with the baby, and when she returns to the bar, there is a moment when their eyes lock, and it's so revealing. The truth dawns on Aidan that Susie is his child."

With so many conflicting emotions whirring around in his mind, Aidan battles to make sense of the situation. He is compelled to reach for Susie, whom he cradles in his arms while piecing together the jigsaw of Eva and Toyah's ruse.

"He feels the need to find out if he senses a connection to Susie, and it's heartbreaking when he holds her," sighs Shayne. "She is the most beautiful thing in the world, but you see the sadness in Aidan's eyes as he realises that he can't be there for her. He loves his daughter, though ultimately he doesn't want to let her down. In his mind, Aidan has let everyone else down and he doesn't want to do the same again. He feels that everyone, including this child, would be better off without him."

In light of his realisation, Aidan feels compelled to seek out Eva and say his goodbyes. So even as he's still struggling to make sense of things, Aidan secretly swipes the details of her hideaway cottage from Toyah's handbag, and heads there to see his former fiancée one last time.

"Eva doesn't know why Aidan is there, but it's not so he can have it out with her – he just wants to see her," says Shayne. "She's confused, and when he tells her he has seen Susie, Eva panics and apologises

– but Aidan insists she has nothing to apologise for.

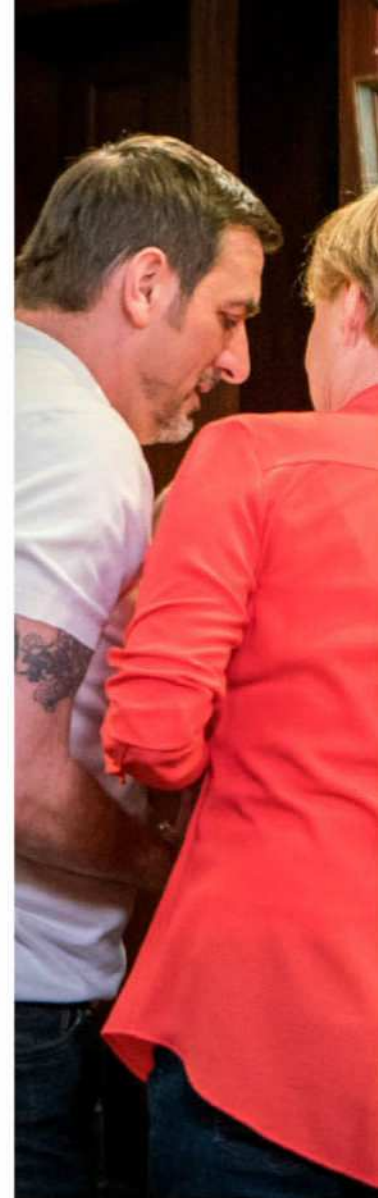

"Aidan knows that Eva did everything she did because of how he treated her, and as she breaks down, he tells her she is doing the right thing," he adds.

"Johnny breaks the moment between them by ringing Aidan, so he tells Eva he loves her and says goodbye."

After Aidan leaves, Eva is confused when she realises she has left behind her engagement ring. She hopes it's a sign he wants to give their relationship another try, but her optimism couldn't be more misplaced.

"Aidan heads back to the pub where we see him completely numb while sat with his family, who are unaware of his state of mind," reveals Shayne.

Aidan says an emotional goodbye to Eva before returning to the Street

"The last time we see him is when he is back at his flat alone, where he breaks down."

No element of Aidan's suicide is to be shown on screen. The next morning, when he doesn't arrive to open the factory, Johnny assumes Aidan has slept in and goes to his son's flat. Once inside, he finds a note in Aidan's handwriting – then makes a heart-wrenching discovery.

After paramedics arrive and confirm that Aidan has died from suicide, the Connors are awash with grief, unable to comprehend what prompted his actions. As the family falls apart, each blaming themselves for not spotting that he was struggling to cope with life, how will they ever come to terms with their terrible loss?

WILL EVA'S REUNION WITH SUSIE SPELL HEARTBREAK FOR TOYAH?

After word spreads of Aidan's death, Eva returns to the cobbles – but as she reunites with Susie, how will she feel now the baby is her only link to her ex?

Making out she is back from her beauty course in the US, Eva arrives at the Rovers and cradles her daughter for the first time since handing her over to Toyah. The joy she feels upon holding Susie is plain to see, prompting sympathetic Toyah to remark that the little girl bears a likeness to Aidan.

But the resemblance is of no comfort to Eva, when Johnny calls to quiz her on Aidan's movements on the evening of his death. While Eva's guilt consumes her, will she choose to confess to Johnny the truth of Susie's parentage? And is Eva still prepared to let Toyah raise her daughter?

Rainie seduces Robbie!

BUT PHIL HAS A MORE TEMPTING OFFER FOR THE FELLA...

EASTENDERS | BBC1 THURSDAY

There are tense scenes at the car lot this week, as Rainie tries to use Robbie as a quick way to get cash – but there's more intrigue to come when Rainie isn't alone in trying to get one over on Max!

Rainie and Max have been maintaining the pretence that they're now happily married, in the hope of adopting baby Abi – but as they put their plan into action this week, it's increasingly clear all is not well behind closed doors. Desperate for cash, Rainie asks Max to help her out, but he fobs her off, telling her that if she wants money then she'll have to start working – by selling cars on the car lot...

"Max and Rainie are a match made in hell!" grins our Walford spy. "It suits them both – for now – to keep up this sham marriage, but it's an accident waiting to happen. Rainie's priority is to get cash to fund her drug habit, while Max is trying a more sophisticated approach to adopting his own granddaughter and making a success of his new car-sales company. But how long can their alliance actually last?"

Max needs Rainie's help to give him the best chance at adopting Abi

Resigned to working at Maximum Motors, Rainie hears hungover Robbie moaning about his job – so she takes the opportunity to offer him a commission-only trial selling cars. And much to the surprise of everyone, he turns out to be a massive success!

"Robbie's not quite the idiot that people think he is," points out our mole. "He's actually a decent salesman – and as far as he's concerned, this is a chance for him to go up in the world. Unfortunately for Robbie, Rainie doesn't have his best interests at heart..."

Sure enough, Rainie begins flirting with Robbie, and is soon offering him another way to get his 'commission'. Taken aback by her brazenness, Robbie turns her down and opts for the cash. However, when Phil spots him working for Max's business, he decides to ask Robbie for a favour.

"Phil is still irked by Max's continued presence on the Square, and he's looking for anything he might be able to use against him," reasons our snitch. "So when he notices Robbie, he realises that he has the perfect chance to get one over on his enemy. He asks

Robbie agrees to help Phil – but does it all go to plan?

IT'S RAINIE'S MAN!

Tanya Franks isn't surprised Max and her alter ego have teamed up...

While viewers were shocked by the identity of Max's bride, Tanya Franks – who returns to the role of Rainie – reckons the pair have a lot in common.

"Nobody in the world wants either of them, but both have to look to a new pathway," she says. "They are two people who absolutely loathe each other, but actually there's similarity between them for different reasons."

Off screen, meanwhile, Tanya is loving her new partnership with long-time EastEnders Jake Wood, who plays Max.

"We do find ourselves laughing a lot on set, myself and Jake," explains the star. "We would never have thought of this idea so it is really fun for us to play, and we are having a good time with it. I think Max and Rainie are working very well together – the chemistry and the dynamic is something that has taken us all by surprise."

Robbie to sneak into the car lot when no one is there, to see what info he can dig up on the new business. Robbie agrees to help Phil, but Max returns to his office at the very moment Robbie is sneaking around!"

Later, Max gets a call from a social worker in connection with the proposed adoption, who informs him that their meeting has been brought forward to that day. Realising that he has hardly any time to prepare, Max panics and begs Rainie to join him so they can keep up their facade for the benefit of the social worker. But with so much scheming going on behind the scenes, can the pair pull off their audacious plan?

Vanessa and Charity bite their tongues when the police come calling

EMMERDALE | ITV TUESDAY

Will Charity expose Bails?

AS THE POLICE WARN HER OFF, CHARITY DECIDES TO TAKE A STAND...

Anguished rape victim Charity is focused on bringing down her attacker this week – but as the police warn her off, will she finally crack and expose what DI Bails did to her all those years ago?

Ever since the evil copper came back into her life, Charity has been plagued by intense emotions – especially since she's had to watch from afar as Tracy has fallen under his spell. While she sits outside Bails' house in her car, Charity tries to pluck up the courage to knock on his front door – but what's going on in her mind?

"Charity doesn't quite know why she's there – it's like a morbid fascination," reckons star Emma Atkins, who plays the tortured woman. "She's obsessed with this man, who did awful things to her years ago. How can he be acting so normal with this wonderful family set-up? He's going along as if nothing ever happened, and she feels absolutely shattered by it. She thinks, 'I could so easily ruin your perfect life by speaking out'."

When Charity sees Bails staring angrily out of the window at her, she speeds away in her car. She admits to her girlfriend Vanessa that she's been to Bails' house again – and then the police arrive to warn her to stay away from him! Unable to tell the truth, and urged by Vanessa to stop stirring things up, Charity agrees to leave him alone.

"Vanessa has been the first person who Charity has felt that she can truly trust, without there being any fallout," explains Emma. "She's not telling anyone else the whole story, and Vanessa feels caught between the devil and the deep blue sea! She can't blow Charity's secret, but she's also full of anxiety for the fact that her sister Tracy is meeting Bails for coffee. Vanessa knows he's a monster, and she's got to be careful how much contact Tracy has with him."

The next day, Bails spots Charity putting out the bins,

Is Charity going to say something – or is she going to keep quiet?"

“This story has spoken to people”

Emma has been taken aback by the reaction...

Charity's story came out of the blue for viewers, as her normally hard exterior cracked – allowing her to open up to Vanessa. And Emma has been moved by the reaction from the audience.

“People have been so kind, and I'm overwhelmed by the feedback,” she tells us. “The plot has spoken to a lot of those who have been subject to some form of abuse throughout their life and had to keep quiet. So to even begin to imagine that this is somehow reaching out to members of the public, making them more courageous and able to talk about what they've gone through, something they haven't until now... well, it's just an amazing thing that we've done.”

Bails confronts Charity, who gives as good as she gets and takes pleasure in backing her into a corner and gloating. He then heads to a conference centre, where he's speaking as part of his campaign against sexual exploitation – and while the conference gets under way, Charity is alone in the Woolpack, staring at the hush money that was given to her by Bails.

“She wants to fight him – but then she doesn't,” sighs Emma. “She's extremely split with her emotional state of mind. She just thinks, ‘How can I win against this man?’ – and at least she can use the money for family and friends. It's not the best way of looking at it, but it makes perfect sense to her at the time.”

Making a snap decision, Charity goes out, and arrives at the conference centre just in time to see Tracy giving Bails an affectionate hug. As Charity is repulsed by what she sees, has the moment finally arrived when she tells all?

“He's speaking out to an audience, being fiercely protective of these abused women – when he himself has been an abuser!” cries Emma. “So Charity rocks up, stands at the back of the hall and watches it all play out. It will be a brilliant moment for the audience: is she going to say something, or is she going to keep quiet?”

Laura-Jayne snoops behind the big soap headlines...

CORONATION STREET

MICHELLE SHOT ON HER WEDDING DAY?

Will she become Phelan's next victim?

In what could be the most shocking rumour to emerge from the cobbles this year, we hear that killer Phelan will crash Robert and Michelle's wedding – and gun down the bride!

The Street super-villain is presumed dead following his cliff-top showdown with wife Eileen, while viewers know that he is alive and in hiding as he plots his next move. Meanwhile, Michelle and Robert are planning to tie the knot – but is their fairy-tale big day doomed to end in bloodshed?

"Phelan will return to Weatherfield just in time to crash Michelle and Robert's nuptials," reports a tabloid newspaper. "In all the carnage, she will end up being shot, with Robert desperately trying to save her life before she bleeds out. Inevitably, the other guests will be involved in the madness when he shoots her."

The gossip comes after Corrie star Connor McIntyre, who plays the builder, hinted that Phelan's next victim would be someone whom we might not expect – and Michelle certainly fits the bill, having had very little to do with the madman compared with others who've crossed him. So what on earth would prompt Phelan to pull the trigger on Michelle? Could it be that she is simply caught in the crossfire as he takes his final revenge?

A show spokesperson has stressed to Inside Soap that they never comment on storyline speculation, so viewers will need to tune in to find out if the reports are true. However, word on the street is that the explosive scenes will play out in a post-watershed 9pm time slot, which the soap has occupied in the past following the Britain's Got Talent semi-finals.

Previous storylines to have aired in that particular week – usually at the end of May – include the Underworld siege when Tony Gordon took Carla hostage, the Victoria Court fire caused by Tracy, and Bethany's horrific grooming ordeal.

So, if these rumours turn out to be true and Phelan's revenge really is as blockbuster as some of the plots detailed above, it's certainly going to be a week of Coronation Street that you're not going to want to miss...

Will Robert and Michelle become man and wife?

NICK'S HOME - AS CARLA & PETER REUNITE?

Ben Price is returning to the Street...

Carla's love life looks set to become more complicated than ever, when her ex-husband Nick Tilsley makes a return to Weatherfield later this year! Star Ben Price is reprising the role just one year on from his dramatic exit...

"Nick walked out on Leanne after struggling to accept that she'd had a baby with Steve," our Corrie source reminds us. "But it's not just Leanne who bears the scars of losing him: Carla fled following their disastrous wedding day, on which Nick learned that she'd cheated with Robert. Expect plenty of fireworks all round!"

Interestingly, reports suggest that Carla's other ex Peter will soon learn the truth of Toyah's baby lie and quit the Rovers – so could it pave the way for a reunion between Carla and Peter, just as Nick returns to the frame? We do hope so!

JOSH COLLARED BY THE COPS!

Is he finally set to pay for his attack on David?

Now here's a sight viewers have been crying out to see – David's rapist Josh surrounded by cops!

Our spies recently sighted star Ryan Clayton, who plays Josh, filming scenes on location that suggest his vile alter ego could finally feel the full force of the law following his assault on David.

This week David will break his silence and confess the truth of the traumatic events to his ex-girlfriend Shona (see p16) – so could these scenes be the pay-off to him finding the courage to speak out?

EASTENDERS

CARRY ON, DOT!

June Brown
to stay in Walford...

Oh, we say – this is good news! EastEnders legend June Brown is reported to have signed a new deal with the soap to keep Dot in Walford for at least another 12 months.

"I'm delighted that EastEnders has allowed me to keep playing Dot, while also accommodating me to take on some other work opportunities," says the 91-year-old, who has been in the role since the show's first episode in 1985.

Well, that does come as a relief, because Dot has been noticeably absent from the Square drama of late – and we didn't believe for a second that she would willingly leave Karen Taylor in charge of the laundrette by herself for too long!

As it happens, June was busy filming for ITV earlier on in the year, participating in reality series 100 Years Younger In 21 Days – which saw her and several other celebrities take part in a challenge to transform their bodies by undergoing a whole series of bizarre treatments.

It's not the first occasion that June has had some time off from EastEnders, having taken a six-month break in 2012 to pen her autobiography Before The Year Dot. But she stressed last year that she never wants to stop playing her Square alter ego.

"I haven't got much now, but I find that when I arrive on set my energy comes," confessed the actress. "It keeps me alive."

BRING IT ALL BACK!

Hannah Spearritt to return as Kandice...

Karen Taylor probably thought she'd seen the last of her wealthy sister Kandice following their bust-up in the Square last year – but the women are set to lock horns again when Hannah Spearritt reprises the role for another guest stint.

"We first met Kandice when Karen went to visit her sibling cap in hand to save her family from the bailiffs," recalls our EastEnders insider. "Kandice was reluctant to bail out her sister, though she eventually gave in. But what is it that brings her back this time?"

Hannah – who is best known for singing in the band S Club 7 and playing Abby Maitland in dinosaur drama Primeval – will appear in a handful of episodes later this year.

ITV SOAP SHAKE-UP!

It's all change at the top...

There has been big drama behind the scenes of both Coronation Street and Emmerdale, with the announcement that Corrie boss Kate Oates is leaving her role as producer. She leaves Weatherfield to produce ITV crime drama Bancroft, while Dales boss Iain MacLeod will take charge of the cobbles. As for the village, Jane Hudson is to be the show's executive producer, supported by producers Kate Brooks and Laura Shaw. The changes will take effect from June.

HOLLYOAKS

BROOKE WHO IT IS!

Meet the newest member of the Osborne family...

Hollyoaks is set to welcome new girl Brooke Hathaway, who joins Hollyoaks High next month after being fostered by the Osbornes.

The character will be played by newcomer Talia Grant, who identifies as having high-functioning autism – and is the first female actress who has autism to land a mainstream role in British television.

“Brooke will bring a new, different voice to the show – we are excited by her arrival into the Osbornes, where she’ll bring a secret from the past,” explains Hollyoaks executive producer Bryan Kirkwood. “Brooke is a strong, independent character who has a solid handle on what it means to be a teenage girl with autism – and we have worked with Talia on developing her character.”

Soap SPY...

Little and large!

Now, is Hollyoaks' Haiesha Mistry (Yasmine) just really, really diddy – or is her co-star Jacob Roberts (Damon) mega-tall? The actress couldn't help but point out the height difference between them when she posted this picture on social media, captioned: “Imagine if we had a scene together?” Let's put it to the test, Hollyoaks!

STOP PRESS!

Cop this!

The Dales' Michelle Hardwick would love the soap to mirror a former Brookside plot, as Vanessa vows to bring bent policeman Bails to justice. “She’ll do anything that she can in order to stop him,” insists the actress. “Can you imagine an ‘under the patio’ type job?”

Tough love!

Amy Conachan, who plays Chester's Courtney Campbell, has let slip that Janette Tough – aka Jimmy Krankie – almost played her gran in the show, before the role went to Jenny Lee.

Funny girl!

Corrie viewers can expect rib-tickling scenes to mark Rosie's upcoming departure from the cobbles, as Helen Flanagan goes on maternity leave. “I’m going out in very much ‘Rosie style,’” she grins. “The storyline is hilarious!”

David finally reveals... “I’ve been raped!”

AS HE COURAGEOUSLY SHARES HIS STORY WITH THE WOMAN HE LOVES, CAN DAVID AND SHONA BRING JOSH TO JUSTICE?

Brave David finally speaks out about his rape ordeal this week – as he tells horrified Shona that Josh attacked him.

En route to his court appearance, David jumps out of solicitor Imran’s car and disappears, unable to cope with the fact that he may go to prison for beating up Gary. Desperate Gail begs Shona to help find her son, and she chances upon David in the park. But nothing can prepare Shona for what her traumatised ex has to say...

“David blurts out that he was raped by Josh, and it hits her like a brick wall,” explains Julia Goulding, who plays Shona. “David is at his lowest ebb, to the point of having some very dark thoughts. He’s isolated himself from everybody he loves, and the reality of being sent to jail is hitting him, too. Then something happens that really rocks David, holding up a mirror to his own life and what could happen if he doesn’t talk about what has happened with Josh.”

Understandably, Shona tries to convince David to report the rape to the police. However, David insists he can’t, as he could never deal with the shame. Shona knows the only shame should be felt by wicked Josh – but she cannot convince David that he must act, or even see a counsellor to talk it through.

“If Shona did what she wants to, she’d be on trial for murder!”

"Shona respects that it's his choice," says Julia. "However, because she loves him, the injustice and frustration over what has happened – and the fact that he'll never heal if something isn't done – makes Shona take matters into her own hands, which personally I think is wrong. The next time she sees Josh, her emotions get the better of her..."

Shona confronts Josh outside Audrey's salon, telling him that she knows he's a rapist. As ever, the mechanic tries to manipulate the story, insisting he and David had consensual sex – but he's not fooling Shona for a moment.

"Josh knows Shona has rumbled him and she knows he's lying, but she has to control her anger," reveals Julia. "If she did what she wants to do to Josh, Shona would be on trial for murder!"

"Instead, what Shona takes away from the encounter is that justice must be served. She becomes 'Sherlock Shona', determined to dig up some dirt on Josh to potentially prove he's done it before. She's waiting for him to slip up."

Now that David has been honest with Shona, he's taken his first step towards healing – but there's a long road ahead. For Julia and co-star Jack P Shepherd, it's been an important story, and they wanted to get this pivotal moment right.

"The scenes where David tells Shona were really emotional," the actress tells us. "Jack and I get on really well, and we usually have a laugh when the cameras aren't rolling. But this was a very sombre environment. The crew were amazing, and gave us space and time – because with such raw emotion, you need something that is very real."

However, Julia reckons that she doesn't have to dig too deep to play Shona's scenes with David's rapist.

"I find myself getting very frustrated, because Ryan Clayton is doing such a fantastic job playing Josh!" she shares. "The anger and frustration are easy to play because it's such a horrific subject. Getting worked up isn't too difficult, but shaking it off is a little bit harder."

Josh makes his MOVE!

Knowing David could report him at any time, wicked Josh cynically seduces Alya this week!

In the weeks since he assaulted David, the skilled manipulator has tried to convince his victim that no one will believe it was rape. Part of Josh's plan is to ingratiate himself with the local community, and a relationship with Alya would strengthen that even further.

So after weeks of flirting, Josh heads over to see Alya with flowers, and she melts in his arms. But she has no idea of Josh's true colours – only that he was the kind fellow who went out of his way to organise a boxing fund-raiser for her tragically deceased boyfriend, Luke.

In the months since Luke was murdered, the boxing match has kept Alya going, and she trusts Josh implicitly. How will she feel when she discovers the horrifying truth of what he did to David?

On the surface, Josh seems like the perfect guy

Sonia has loved having her ex under her roof again

EASTENDERS | BBC1 FRIDAY

The battle for Martin!

BOTH SONIA AND STACEY WANT HIM BACK...

Martin Fowler is a man in demand this week – as both his ex-wife Sonia and estranged wife Stacey try to win him back!

Martin and Sonia have been under the same roof ever since Stacey kicked him out, and they've fallen into a comfortable routine. In fact, Sonia has even started cooking for her ex, and is miffed when he rejects a meal in favour of a night out with Robbie. But things get tasty for the fellas after they bump into Stacey and Whitney in E20...

"It all kicks off because Stacey and Whit attract the attention of some drunk blokes," explains our Walford sneak. "Martin sees things are getting out of hand and wades in, determined to protect Stacey, but ends up hurting his back in the ruckus. Although it's a bit of a pitiful sight, Stacey believes that his actions show Martin still loves her, and she wants him back. So she takes her chances and leans in for a kiss. Will he reciprocate?"

The next day, Martin is in agony thanks to his bad back, and Sonia enjoys stepping in as his nurse. Bex can't help but notice the fun and games her parents are having, and is convinced that her mum is feeling that old spark again. When she teases Sonia, the embarrassed woman dismisses it and insists that she and Martin are just good friends – but a couple of days later, she betrays her true feelings as she kisses Martin while he's asleep and whispers about the happy times they shared as a couple. Is Martin feeling it as well?

Bex is determined to help out by giving Sonia a stunning makeover and sending her parents to Kathy's birthday bash together. And it works like a charm as Martin is bowled over, and he and Sonia have a lovely time – till the Slaters arrive!

It doesn't take Stacey long to notice the warmth between Martin and Sonia, together with her love rival's efforts in the make-up and wardrobe department. However, Martin can't take his eyes off Stacey once she turns up, and it's getting quite embarrassing for all concerned. That's when Sonia makes a move to get Martin to focus on her again...

"It's a big mistake to take on Stacey!" gossips our spy. "She knows what Sonia is up to, and she's not having it. Stacey marches over and confronts her, giving her a piece of her mind about her antics. Soon there's a massive slanging match, and Kat and Mo pile in too. But what really matters is whose side Martin is on."

Although he must be loving all the attention, Martin is quick to break up the fight before

Stacey knows what Sonia is up to, and she's not having it!"

Stacey would do anything to have her husband back the claws come out. However, now he knows that both of his wives want him back, it's quite a dilemma. Martin has had his heart broken by each woman – and whereas the love he felt for Stacey hasn't died, he feels nothing but warmth for Sonia.

Given how confused the poor fella is right now, anything is possible – so will Martin pick Sonia, Stacey or singledom?

Kate White

Who should Martin choose?

PROS

Mother to kids Arthur and Hope. Exciting and fiery. They have a whole lotta chemistry together.

CONS

Cheated on him with Max. Had a secret baby with Kush. Comes in a package with Kat, Jean and Mo.

InsideSoap says...

Everyone knows Stacey is the girl for you, Martin. Who cares if she accidentally sleeps with Max from time to time? It don't mean nuffink!

PROS

Mother to his daughter Rebecca. Kind and lovely. They have a whole lotta history together.

CONS

Cheated on him with Naomi Julien when she became a lesbian. Chose Tina over him. Whinges a lot.

InsideSoap says...

Sorry, Sonia, we were against this relationship from the start. It started when Martin ran over your true love Jamie, but now you've run your course!

Alan is on the receiving end of a very dirty look from seething Yasmine

HOLLYOAKS | Channel 4 THURSDAY

Alan Carr: Soapy Man!

THE PRESENTER PAYS A SURPRISE VISIT TO CHESTER...

There's a familiar face in the village this week, as Yasmine's big argument with Diane and Tony is overheard by a passer-by – who bears a suspicious resemblance to TV funny man Alan Carr...

"Yes, it is him in the scene, and he was really funny and down to earth," confirms Haiesha Mistry – who plays Yasmine – as we grill her about the celebrity guest star. "He's a lovely, lovely man. It was great, and we had a good laugh."

Not that there's much for the actress' on-screen alter ego to laugh about this week, though, as the domestic abuse plot for the Maalik clan takes another dramatic turn – prompting Yasmine to launch into a stand-up row with Tony and Diane.

"She's ready to go and shout at them, and there's this heated discussion," explains Haiesha. "And as that's going on, Alan Carr is walking his two dogs – then he comes across what's going on, and he stops to earwig! Yasmine notices him, and gives him a dirty look and he walks away."

We can't say that we blame him – after all, feisty Yasmine possesses a killer death stare! However, we wondered how Haiesha felt about a hugely dramatic scene being stolen by the Chatty Man himself...

"It was quite a surprise when I found out," admits the actress. "I'm a big fan of Alan Carr, though – I watch him on TV all the time, so I didn't mind!"

Telly host Alan was in the area filming for Channel 4's coverage of Crufts dog show – and decided to drop in on Hollyoaks for a look around the soap's set. But while he's an old pro in the world of TV, how did his two gorgeous dogs (a pair of Irish Setters called Bev and Joyce, fact fans) behave themselves in the village?

"They were really great, you know!" Haiesha assures us. "I think that at one point the pair of them stole the show. They were very well behaved."

For once, Alan Carr is lost for words in his non-speaking appearance – but it's clear from our chat that Haiesha is

"She's so funny and sassy – it's always a joy!" enthuses the star. "The lines, and the

OUR FAVOURITE RECENT SOAP QUOTES...

"I love my job, but if I ever fancied doing something different, I really fancy doing what Jude does. It would be so exciting, swimming with sharks every day – and I'd have a little wetsuit cut up at the thigh, a knife, a spear gun."

It's a strong look. Has there ever been a Bond girl from Manchester?

"My nan's a mardy old battleaxe that smokes like a chimney and drinks like a fish. It's a miracle she's made 80."

Can we meet Shona's grandmother, please? Get her cast, Corrie!

"What gets me is, how can Frank pull a beautiful girl like Megan, and I'm still sad and single?"

"My guess is – well – you're a tiny bit annoying."

Poor Rishi. It's cruel, but so true.

"It really is a joint venture, and I'm very lucky to have someone like Ian. It's all about trust in business. There are people out there who would stab you in the back as soon as look at you. Small, spineless little men... With no wife."

We're glad Masood and Ian are finally becoming friends. But we love the sniping, too.

"I got married this morning."

"Yeah, who's the unlucky lady? And what's her guide dog called?"

Blimey, we've missed Kat.

"You were a great dad."

"Were? Hold up, I'm only going to Spain. I'm hoping to be giving you advice for many years to come."

"I'll miss you."
Sob! If only Aidan's family had spotted the clues.

storylines, are so amazing. I'm very grateful. The fans seem to love Yasmine as well, so that's a massive bonus."

With the Maalik family secrets mounting, Alan may be kicking himself that he didn't linger a little longer on set to get the latest gossip from a very dramatic story!

Back together for real!

DEBBIE FALLS INTO JOE'S ARMS AGAIN...

EMMERDALE | ITV BANK HOLIDAY MONDAY

Debbie just can't fight her feelings for Joe any more – and this week the pair finally get back together.

Although Joe hurt her more than anyone ever has – and Debbie knows he's capable of terrible things – she is still in love with him. Over the past few weeks, Joe has tried to prove that he feels the same way, and wants them to give their relationship a proper chance this time. However, given the bad blood between Joe and the Dingles, is Debbie in for more heartache?

"This is a huge gamble for Debbie, and it could wreck her relationship with her family forever," warns our Emmerdale spy. "But there's a connection between these two that won't go away. The level of hate Debbie felt for Joe after he revealed who he really was and why he seduced her was scary – but that was because of how hard she'd fallen for him. It's clear he loves her just as much, and they could have a real future together."

Debbie has been softening towards Joe ever since he released her from the bizarre blackmail where she'd been forced to pretend they were a couple again. Not only did Joe call off the whole sordid arrangement, but he told

Debbie that he genuinely loved her and was begging for another chance. Since then, she's been spending time with him every now and again – but Debbie can't believe it after he invites her over, presents her with a model aeroplane kit and asks her to help build it!

Before long, the cheeky flirtation works and the pair start to kiss – prompting Joe to lead Debbie upstairs to the bedroom. But have they thought about how young Noah will cope if he discovers that the two of them are together again?

"It's clear that Joe genuinely loves Debbie, and they could have a real future together"

"Joe and Noah have developed a close bond, and it's special to both of them," muses our snitch. "There will now be competition for Joe's attention, and it could drive a wedge between Noah and Debbie, who've always been close. The question is: will they tell Noah they're back together,

Ross plays with fire!

HE'S DETERMINED TO TRACK DOWN ATTACKER SIMON...

Vengeful Ross is dancing with danger this week – and he's not the only person getting hurt.

Thanks to his quest to track down acid attacker Simon, Ross has been paying drug addict Dawn to gather information on the violent lad's whereabouts. He's confident that he can find Simon – who's gone into hiding since the court case against him fell apart – and that he'll be able to take his revenge. But when Dawn turns up in the village battered and bruised, Ross begins to realise that there could be real consequences to his reckless actions...

It's a shock to see Dawn so badly hurt, even though he knew she was taking a risk by accepting money to spy on Simon and his cronies. Desperate and shaken, she asks Ross to pay her more money so she can score, and blames him for the beating she took at the hands of Simon's mate Connor. Guilty Ross accepts that he's responsible and hands over some cash – with the proviso that he expects more information on Simon in return.

What Ross doesn't realise is that his worried brother Pete has spotted the two of them in conversation and is now wondering what on earth they're up to. He's been hoping that Ross had turned a corner, especially now he's started wearing the facial conformer mask to help heal his scars – but seeing Ross with Dawn, Pete realises his brother is still hell-bent on revenge. Can Pete convince Ross to let it go?

Daniel's good deed

HE INVITES FLORA TO MOVE IN
- AND ADAM ISN'T HAPPY...

CORONATION STREET | ITV BANK HOLIDAY MONDAY

Daniel goes to Sally in the hope that her position of power will help his cause

Daniel is on a mission to make an old lady's life more bearable this week, as he asks local mayor Sally to help find Flora a better place to live.

Flora is the elderly mother of Vinny Ashworth, one of Phelan's murder victims – and although Daniel explains how isolated she is, Sally proves reluctant to get involved. So the fella takes desperate measures... “Daniel got to know Flora while investigating Phelan and Vinny's Calcutta Street property scam for the Gazette,” recalls our Corrie sneak. “Since then it's transpired that Phelan killed her boy Vinny, and Daniel feels a responsibility towards the lonely pensioner now that her loved one is no more. But coming to Flora's rescue isn't quite as straightforward as Daniel might have hoped.”

Having realised how down Flora is in her care home, Daniel is determined to help – and he hopes to convince Weatherfield mayor Sally to pull some strings to find Flora somewhere better. However, disappointment lies ahead.

“Sadly, it soon transpires that Sally doesn't have enough sway – or she's not prepared to use her influence – as she tells Daniel there's nothing that she can do,” shares our spy. “But while Daniel finds himself back at square one, he remains loyal to Flora's cause. His flatmate Adam isn't happy when he later finds out about Daniel's plan B, though!”

Refusing to allow Flora to spend another day in distress, Daniel moves her into his own home. But that idea is headed for trouble after he fails to fill Adam in on what he's done.

“Adam's not having the best of weeks,” sighs our insider. “He's been knocked for six by Aidan's death, and spends an afternoon drinking in the Bistro. While there, he starts chatting to Niamh – and the pair get to know each other better back at his. But their plan for a spot of afternoon delight is thwarted when they bump into bemused Flora on the landing!”

“It soon transpires that Sally doesn't have enough sway to help”

Unimpressed by Adam’s new housemate, Niamh makes a rapid exit – and Daniel is left with lots to explain to furious Adam.

“Daniel didn’t think it’d be a problem to put up Flora until he found her somewhere new,” mutters our mole. “But Adam has other ideas! He’s outraged Daniel would do this without consulting him – and stung by Niamh’s departure, he wastes no time making his feelings perfectly clear.”

With the responsibility of Flora’s well-being weighing heavy on his shoulders, can scolded Daniel come up with a new way of improving her situation?

Who's stalking Albert Square?

MEL FEARS FOR HER SON AS A MYSTERIOUS
DRIVER LURKS...

An enigmatic vehicle with blacked-out windows strikes terror into Mel's heart this week, as she spots it prowling the Square and instantly fears for her son Hunter's safety. Is he in danger from the unknown lurker?

Her fears over Hunter come while Mel isn't in the best frame of mind, as her on-off romance with Jack continues to occupy her thoughts...

"Jack injures his hand in an altercation at the club, so instinctively Mel rushes to his aid – and it's obvious that she likes him more than she's willing to let on!"

gossips our source. "Although Mel likes to play it cool, it's also clear that she might be open to romance. However, Jack doesn't like to be made a fool of, and he's certainly not going to keep running after Mel if it means putting up with all her game-playing."

With the outcome of the encounter playing on her mind,

Mel is further wound up when she spots the suspicious car staking out the Square. Initially worried for Hunter's safety, she's sent into a blind panic after she finds out that he hasn't turned up at school. Fearing the worst, she speaks to her neighbours – including Sharon and Max – and even gets in touch with her ex-husband Ray, the brother of Ciara Maguire.

"Mel's worst fear is that Ciara's ex-husband Aidan Maguire could be back, looking for revenge," notes our informant. "After everything she's been through with Aidan, she knows what he's capable of – and she also knows his style. Any time a car with blacked-out windows turns up in the area, alarm bells start to ring loudly!"

So, is Aidan really behind Hunter's disappearance? And if that's not the case, who is inside the mystery vehicle?

KIM LOOKS FOR ANSWERS!

The mystery stalker propels her into action...

The blacked-out car also has a big effect on Kim this week. Wondering if it's something to do with her hubby Vincent's disappearance, she becomes determined to get some answers. What she doesn't know is that Vincent was driven away by two thugs on Phil's instructions – and with Phil acting out of character, will she uncover the truth?

"Phil has already given Kim money, saying it was from the sale of Vincent's car," shares our insider. "However, the altruistic gesture got Kim thinking – it's not like Phil to be so considerate, after all!"

"Kim has a reputation for being an airhead, but she's not stupid," adds our snitch. "Even though Vincent tried to hide it from her, she knows that he was tied up in all sorts of dodgy business deals with the likes of Phil and Aidan. So she wonders if Phil knows more than he's letting on..."

However, when Kim meets up with Phil again, he does his best to put her off the scent.

"Phil thinks the best way out might be to lend Kim a sympathetic ear," reveals our sneak. "He suggests that Vincent didn't have a choice about leaving, and perhaps he simply couldn't cope."

Phil's words seem to work – and despite the mystery involving the skulking newcomer, Kim decides it's time to move on, declaring that it's now just her and daughter Pearl against the world. But will her niggling doubts about Phil go away?

THEY'RE IN DANGER AFTER A CAMPING TRIP GOES HORRIBLY WRONG...

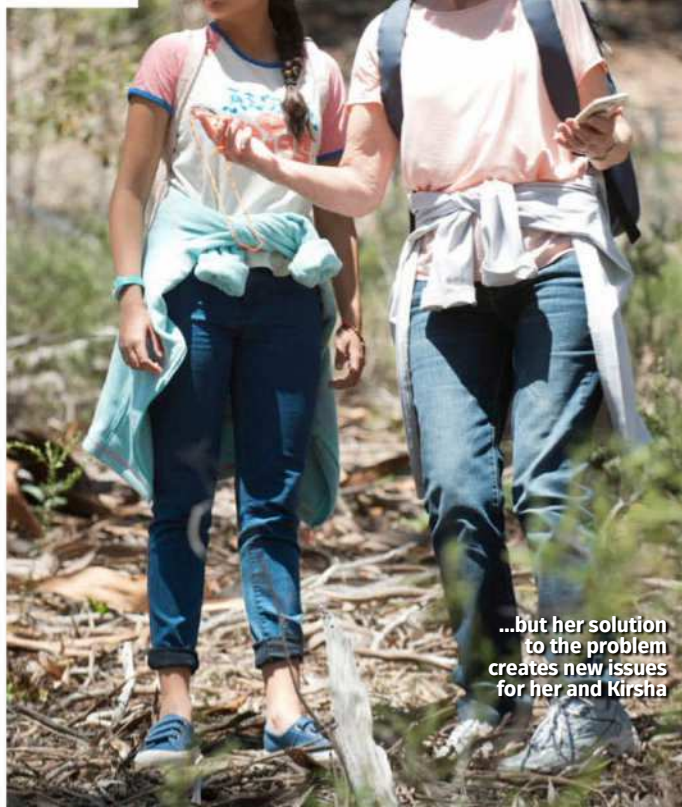

Susan has words with Poppy over her bullying ways...

Both Susan and Karl's lives are left hanging in the balance this week, after they get lost out in the bush!

Susan is supervising a school camping trip when she and pupil Kirsha get separated from the rest of the group and lose their bearings. And it soon becomes clear that their situation is very perilous indeed...

"Kirsha is getting bullied by her classmate Poppy, and Susan steps in to shut it down," explains Jackie Woodburne, who plays the head teacher. "Kirsha is left deeply upset, though, and refuses to continue the hike. Susan tells the others to go on, and stays behind to calm her down – but she and Kirsha

...but her solution to the problem creates new issues for her and Kirsha become hopelessly lost! It later dawns on Susan that the magnet on her phone cover affected the compass reading."

As the light fades, Susan realises their chances of making it back to camp are rapidly diminishing. So the pair have no other option but to bed down for the night, and pray they'll be found in the morning.

"Susan tries to downplay her concerns to Kirsha to keep her anxiety at bay," reveals Jackie. "But with the light failing, there's no way they'll make it out before darkness hits. Susan has some trail mix in her backpack, and there's still water in Kirsha's bottle."

While Susan and her young charge are putting their survival skills to good use, little do they know the commotion they've caused back at camp. After Xanthe and Yashvi realise the pair are missing, they raise the alarm – and when news gets back to Ramsay Street, poorly Karl ignores medical advice and heads out to look for her!

"Susan would be shocked if she found out that Karl had been foolish enough to head off alone," reckons Jackie. "I think that would soon turn to worry, frustration and anger, though, considering the state of his health."

Given that he's currently suffering from deep vein thrombosis, Karl's actions are rash, to say the least. And his heroism comes back to bite him as his health takes a turn for the worse, causing him to have a nasty fall – so by the time Xanthe finds him, he's in a terrible way.

With Susan still missing and Karl now in deadly peril himself, will there be a double tragedy on Ramsay Street as both Kennedys suffer a terrible fate?

Gerry turns detective!

WILL HE DISCOVER LACHLAN'S SECRET?

This week, Gerry finally retrieves the voicemail that Lachlan left him on the day of the White family's fateful car crash. But will it reveal the truth behind the horrific accident?

Ever since the day of the crash, which claimed the lives of both Chrissie and Lawrence, Lachlan has been trying to bury all evidence that the collision was his fault. He's even gone so far as to convince his Aunt Rebecca – who was the only other survivor of the accident – that she was the one who caused the whole thing!

However, the pressure is clearly getting to the twisted teen, and he recently hinted to pal Gerry that there may have been more to the crash than meets the eye. But when Gerry presses Lachlan for more info, Lachie clams up, and Gerry is forced to drop the matter before things get out of hand.

With Lachlan refusing to talk, Gerry knows that the key to finding out more info is retrieving the voicemail his mate left for him on the day of the crash. At the time, Lachie persuaded him not to listen to the recording, which contained his mum and grandad's final moments – but now Gerry reckons the message could hold some vital clues.

However, as the lad fires up his laptop and successfully retrieves the voicemail, will it reveal the horrific truth about Lachlan causing the accident that wiped out half his family?

HOLY GRAIL

The look on Gail's face when David emerged from his bedroom with Emma in tow in Corrie was priceless! Could her jaw have dropped any further? But I do like Emma's nickname for Gail: 'Grail', a cross between Gail and Granny. It's hilarious, and actually really suits her!

👤 | Vanessa

GOLDEN GRAHAM

If Emmerdale's Graham has to be paired up with anyone (and he doesn't!), wouldn't it make more sense to pair him with Harriet, not Megan? Harriet is single and Graham has shown he has morals, so he wouldn't go with someone who's already taken. Harriet is an ex-cop, Graham is ex-Army – plus she's Cain's ex, so it would really irritate Cain if she teamed up with Graham. Perfect match!

👤 | Sharon, Doncaster

I think Graham is just the right amount of bad boy for Harriet.

other soaps, I hope he would start with EastEnders and the appalling Kim Fox-Hubbard. She's vain, lazy, selfish, delusional, stupid and totally obnoxious. As someone old enough to have watched the soaps from day one of Corrie, I find her the most unlikeable character in any soap ever.

👤 | Pearl, London

Well done on your soap dedication, Pearl! I did wonder for a moment if you were Kim's daughter...

Chloe loved hearing about the time Jane dated Hollywood's Guy Pearce

GO WITH THE CHLO

I know that many residents of Ramsay Street have taken against newcomer Chloe, but I think she's a really great addition to the show. She's feisty and full of energy – and with a brother like Mark, she can't be that bad. I reckon she'd be great fun on a night out!

👤 | Mandy

Just don't introduce her to your boyfriend – she'd probably snog him behind your back!

OVER THE HILL?

I was intrigued to see former Corrie star Rupert Hill [Jamie Baldwin] pop up in Hollyoaks as Josh – especially as he's meant to be the son of Ben Bradley! I looked it up online and there's only seven years between Rupert and actor Ben Richards, who played Ben, in real life. Does the Hollyoaks casting department really think we're stupid enough to not notice that? Why didn't they just make the character into Ben's brother instead?

Tyrone's facelift had mixed results

👤 | Carla

There's only a small age gap between Nicole Barber-Lane (Myra) and her eldest screen kids Niall and Jacqui, too!

DEAD ANNOYING

Are we ever going to find out what happened to poor Vincent in EastEnders? I really hate this thing that soaps do now where they hedge their bets on characters – if you never see their body, then they'll probably turn up alive and well at some point. Why can't EastEnders just follow through on a storyline, kill off Vincent properly and be done with it?

👤 | Amber

But I don't want Vincent to be dead! I'm sure he's just having a nice rest somewhere...

At least Vincent avoided Fat Boy's car fate!

SAMMS GOOD

What a treat to see Emma Samms back in Doctors after 12 years.

Her character Amanda will certainly ruffle some feathers at the surgery, especially those of her ex-husband Jimmi. Emma is a great actress – I adored her in The Colbys all those years ago.

👤 | Darren, Stoke-on-Trent
How I'd love to see Emma pop up in the Dynasty reboot next!

MAX'S SECRET MISSUS!

Max's surprise return to the Square was a big enough shock for his neighbours – but the revelation that he'd married his former sister-in-law Rainie really did send viewers into a tailspin...

OMG! I cannot believe what I've just seen on EastEnders! My jaw dropped when it was revealed that Max's secret woman is none other than Rainie – what a cliffhanger that was! But why bring poor Robbie to witness the ceremony? I dread to think what Tanya and Cora would say about it. Max has never changed his ways when it comes to women, has he?

👤 | Louise, Leicester

What on earth is Max playing at, getting hitched to former drug addict Rainie? It's clearly some kind of scam! They've always despised each other in the past, so there's no way I believe that they've suddenly fallen in love.

👤 | Niall

Max's secret wedding was brilliant! I loved that they kept the identity of his new wife under wraps right up until the end of the episode. I was trying to figure out who it could be all the way through – my money was on Janine Butcher – but I never would have guessed it was Rainie. What a shocker.

👤 | Jillian, Newcastle

But some of you think Max and Rainie's marriage is perfectly fine...

Why does everyone think it's so weird that Max has married his ex-sister-in-law? Have they forgotten that his ex-wife Tanya got together with his brother Jack? This is no more twisted than that!

👤 | Joshua, London

I don't care if Rainie is married to Max, it's just brilliant to have her back in Walford.

SEAN APART

I was sad to read in Inside Soap that Emmerdale was killing off Ali Spencer – but it got me wondering what happened to her son Sean? Can you remind me why he left the village?

👉 | Julian

Teenager Sean (played by actor Luke Roskell) left the village in 2014 to join the Army, and returned briefly for his mum's wedding to Ruby. News later reached Ali that Sean had been involved in a serious car accident, so she moved to Liverpool to look after him. Since little has been mentioned about his injuries, we can only assume he's fully recovered now.

THE BIG
interview

“Bob should leave women alone and become a vicar!”

As his character's wedding day dawns, Tony Audenshaw gives his hot take on where the story should go...

“People were shouting at me when I was out at the Brighton Marathon recently!” Tony Audenshaw feels chastised as he joins us to discuss Bob's bad behaviour – but he insists his cheating alter ego deserves the flak. “They were yelling, ‘Bob's horrible, he should stop sleeping with Laurel and be nice to Brenda’ and they're right – he is horrible!” declares the 53-year-old Dales veteran. “So it's fair enough, isn't it? It's nice that people are feeling so angry with him, though, because it's important that you play these kinds of stories properly – and Bob is doing some terrible things.

“It's actually been quite enjoyable and liberating to say some of the things he's said to Brenda and Laurel. He's told both those women that he wants to be with them – twice!”

Despite all the awful things that Bob has done, and the fact that she knows about his affair with Laurel, Brenda still seems prepared to be his wife – even though it's not clear which of the two ladies Bob is more in love with. But while she's in a state of denial, he's drifting along in his own dream land – and it's only in the hours prior to the ceremony that reality finally starts to bite...

“He's at his stag do, which is a quiet affair because he's still a bit confused,” explains Tony. “Nothing is right, and he feels wrong. People don't know that he's been having an affair with Laurel, and because he feels bad about that, he doesn't want his stag to be a big fuss. But Rishi organises a bit of nonsense with Bob's 'man club' mates, and they end up in Ashley's pirate ship. Bob doesn't think it's right they're in there, though, because he's missing Ashley.”

Loose lips sink pirate ships: Arthur locks up Bob as revenge for playing away with Laurel

As Bob persuades his friends to leave him alone in the pirate ship, he feels compelled to open up to Ashley – his late best pal and husband of his mistress. His guilty conscience is laid bare in that vulnerable moment, but Tony insists we shouldn't credit Bob with having seen the error of his ways.

“Bob hasn't thought about the consequences of what he's been doing,” sighs the actor. “What an idiot! He's been incredibly blinkered and selfish. If he could keep Brenda and Laurel happy at the same time, then that's what he'd do – without thinking about what it would mean in the long run. Bob isn't a complex person, he just does what he's told. But he's such a selfish person and all he can see is sex!”

It looks as if fate is about to intervene, when Laurel and Ashley's son Arthur – who's angry about his mum's fling – locks Bob inside the pirate ship. Once Bob's panicked mates realise he's gone AWOL, there's a race to get him to the church on time – but even if he makes it, there's still a chance betrayed Brenda might get cold feet.

CONTINUED OVER >

“Bob isn't complex, he's just such a selfish person – all he can see is sex!”

LADIES' MAN

Which one of Bob's many loves has been 'The One'?

VAL

"Bob and Val had a brief little fling after he and Viv had split up – I think after all the stuff with Paddy. It was only for a couple of months, though, and it didn't really work out. They weren't well suited!"

BRENDA

"Bob and Brenda have been through a lot together – but they've been great and had a warm, loving relationship. Brenda is wonderful, and Lesley Dunlop, who plays her, is fantastic to work with – I've been very lucky."

VIV

"I think that Viv was the one who Bob was most suited to, really – no offence to any of the others, obviously! Viv and Bob had a good, strong connection and I think the relationship worked well for both characters."

LAUREL

"Bob's affair with Laurel came as a bit of a surprise – but I think their friendship while Ashley was ill was the nucleus. And Brenda was away in Canada for a while, so Bob and Laurel were both in a strange place at the same time!"

GENNIE

"The thing with Gennie happened while Viv was in jail, and she'd told Bob that she never wanted to see him again. So he and Gennie got together and then – soap's law! – Viv pops out of prison the very next day..."

Hen don't: Is Brenda having second thoughts about marrying cheater Bob?

"Brenda knows about Bob's affair, but he's told her that it's over, and Brenda has just sort of let it go," reveals Tony. "It really freaked Bob out when he learned Brenda had known for ages beforehand. Bob has claimed it's no more, though, and Brenda says she's fine about it. And now Bob's thinking that as long as he doesn't talk about it, then it's all okay. So they haven't talked about it. I don't know...it's weird, isn't it?"

Adding to this already complicated situation is that, unbeknown to Bob, Laurel has been fibbing – and still cares about him a great deal. After a heart-to-heart with her dad Doug, she could spill the beans to Bob at any moment – but would it stop him from marrying Brenda if she did?

"That's difficult to answer," mulls Tony. "Bob's just been rejected by Laurel, and she shut the door on him – which is why he's focused on sorting things with Brenda. And despite his awful behaviour, he wants to do the right thing – sort of!"

"It's a different kind of love he has for Laurel," continues the star. "Just like there's different sorts of snow, there's different sorts of love. He's more at the 'falling in love' stage with Laurel, while with Brenda it's more long-term."

It's anyone's guess whether Bob and Brenda will end their wedding day as man and wife. And Tony has his own opinion on what the future should hold for his hapless character.

"I think he should be with Brenda – but she shouldn't have him back because of the way he's behaved!" he hoots. "Can Bob ever settle for just the one woman anyway? Evidently not. Yet he's one of these people who needs a relationship because he's not good on his own. I don't think he'd cope with being single. He'd be straight on Tinder, looking for someone new!"

It's ironic that somebody as untrustworthy as Bob is rarely without a partner. However, as we ask what he'd tell Bob to do at this point, even Tony believes that it's time for his character to change his ways – for the sake of unsuspecting females everywhere.

"What advice would I give Bob? That he become a man of the cloth!" he chuckles. "He should leave women alone, and go off to seek redemption somewhere!"

Hidden pain: Aidan kept his feelings to himself during his transplant ordeal

CORONATION STREET | ITV WEDS

LEAVING THE STREET WASN'T EASY FOR SHAYNE WARD, BUT HE EXPLAINS THAT TELLING AIDAN'S HEARTBREAKING FINAL TALE WAS HIS DUTY...

“I could have said no to this story, but I wanted to do it...”

Talking could have turned Aidan's life around," laments actor Shayne Ward, as he joins Inside Soap for what is his last Coronation

Street chat. "It could have brought him relief from whatever he was going through, which is what his loved ones would have wanted. Suicide is a very permanent response to what are usually temporary problems."

Certainly some viewers will watch Aidan's story and think, 'But he seemed fine' – and that is exactly why Street bosses chose a character who, on the surface, appeared to be so grounded and ordinary. Likewise, writing out a likeable and popular media figure such as X Factor winner Shayne seemed odd at first, yet now it all becomes clear...

How did you feel when you heard Aidan would die from suicide?

When you're given a storyline like this, it is a decision that is not taken lightly – and I have played it with as much truth as I could. It's an honour to have been trusted with it, and it shows the confidence the Corrie team had in me to be able to play it. Aidan is an 'everyman' figure that men can identify with, which is important. We have all heard stories like Aidan's when it was too late, when people looked back and wished they had spotted the signs, but it isn't always possible. If we can encourage someone who is feeling low to realise they need to talk, then we have achieved what we set out to do.

For how long has Aidan been experiencing these feelings?

He had planned to do it sooner, though when Carla needed a kidney, he saw a chance to do something good. By that point Aidan had decided he was going to take his own life and posted a letter – but after he found out about Carla, he intercepted the letter the next day from the postman outside his dad's flat.

After his kidney transplant, viewers saw Aidan break down in hospital...

Yes, there was a moment when he was in bed after the operation crying, but he kept all of that from his family. There were no telltale signs. Everyone around him was so happy that it had been successful, and he didn't want to burden anyone with his thoughts.

I will miss playing Aidan – but this is an important story to tell...

Dart of gold: Aidan loved his family, but felt he'd let them down

Was it sad for you knowing that Aidan's death would mean a permanent exit from the Street?

As an actor I was honoured to be given the responsibility of this storyline. The bosses sat me down and said they were thinking of exploring this issue – and I could have said no. But after talking it through, there was a greater pull to want to do the storyline. I will miss playing Aidan and working with the fantastic people on this show, but it is a hugely important story to tell.

Was it hard to switch off after filming your final scenes?

I had a few emotional scenes, and it was important to get out of that mindset and shake it off at the end of a day's filming. I have always been able to deal with a lot of pressure, which goes back to my singing days. I was 21 when I did The X Factor and I had been working from the age of 16, so I was prepared for the pressure it brought. It helps being part of a big family, too – I'm one of seven, and the one the others take advice from.

Are you good at opening up and talking about your feelings?

With Aidan I brought a lot of myself to playing him, but he is different from me. I believe in talking, and encourage my friends and family to talk to me if they are going through a hard time.

Will you watch your final episode?

Yes, and my family have said they want to watch it, too. And that is the point: if they didn't want to watch it, they'd be falling into the bracket of ignoring the issue. Hopefully it'll spark conversations among viewers. They may be difficult conversations – but they are important.

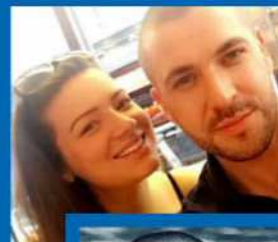

Laura-Jayne Tyler

FAMILY MATTERS!

Shayne takes us to his happy place...

Away from Weatherfield, Shayne is happily engaged to former Hollyoaks star Sophie Austin – who played Lindsey Roscoe – and together they are the proud parents of one-year-old Willow, who the actor says helped keep his spirits up while playing Aidan's story.

"You can do scenes like the ones I played and remain in that dark place," shares Shayne. "I could have stayed feeling very down and, knowing how serious the storyline was, I could have added pressure on myself. However, I believed in what I was doing and hopefully it will be so helpful to people, and be something that my daughter will be proud of. For me, it was all about looking to the future with her at the forefront of my mind. She's my happy place."

Pash RASH!

WE QUIZ CASUALTY'S NEET MOHAN ON HIS BASHFUL ALTER EGO...

It's no secret that Inside Soap loves a man in uniform, especially when he's a hot doctor working in Holby City ED! So given that trainee medic Rash Masum has been reporting for duty for over six months now, we realised that an inaugural chat with the man who plays him was long overdue.

Luckily for us, actor Neet Mohan isn't quite as shy as Rash, and is only too happy to have a chinwag – even on his day off. But as he explains, the Casualty set is such a jolly place to work that he can't stop beaming from ear to ear...

"I have absolutely no complaints – it's such a lovely bunch of people to be with," gushes Neet, as we ask him how his first few months have been. "Everyone is just so nice. You stand in the room and look round, trying to work out which one of them is the idiot. And then you reflect on it and go, 'Is it me? Am I the one everyone hates?'. But I guess a show like this is such a machine that if everyone didn't get along, the whole thing would fall apart."

It hasn't been such an easy start to hospital life for poor Rash, who was so scared of resus that it took him months to even step foot inside! He may have found his mojo with the patients, but Rash is still hopeless when it comes to romance – which is why, following weeks of lusting after colleague Gem, he's only just got round to asking her on a date.

"Rash is out of his depth when he's talking to women anyway, but when he's got a crush on someone, it just spirals out of control!" chuckles Neet, who's engaged to actress Amber Rose Revah in real life. "Rash and Gem are such opposites, both in their personalities and their upbringings, that he finds her intriguing. Plus he really fancies her, which is why he just can't bring himself to ask her out."

However, Rash is forced to take action when a hot new porter arrives in the ED!

"He sees Gem talking to this new guy, who's tall and good-looking – she's all smiles and playing with her hair," reveals Neet. "Then Alicia and Robyn also start talking about how attractive the guy is, and it prompts Rash to go, 'Woah, hold on, I need to do something about this!'. So he finally speaks to Gem and they arrange a lunch date."

In typical Casualty fashion, things go horribly wrong when Connie orders Rash to do some research for her, and the jumpy F1 is too scared to tell her that he already has plans! The result is that poor Gem spends her lunch hour waiting for him in the pub – and when she finds out why he stood her up, she's not impressed.

"Rash and Gem's romance will be a slow burn, but I think it will be worth it in the end," teases Neet. "They'll get together eventually, but what happens next will be interesting to watch. I do wonder whether they are actually compatible!"

Compatibility-wise, Neet tells us he has one cast mate in particular that he gets on with like a house of fire – and it sounds as if it's turning into quite the bromance!

"Jason Durr [David] is just such a darling man!" he grins. "He really took me under his wing when I first started. There's a table-tennis table hidden away among the props, so between takes we'll often have a game. Jason really played down his abilities, though, so I went in thinking that I had it in the bag – and I got totally hustled!"

Rash and Gem will be a slow burn, but worth it in the end!

Operating at peak efficiency: It's taken a while for Rash to find his rhythm in the ED

All over her like a Rash: The medic finally plucks up the courage to ask out Gem

“The first person I told when I got the part was my fiancée. I knew I’d have to go to Cardiff, but we’d only just moved into a new place in London – so I’m doing a lot of travelling back and forth.”

“My first scene was with Mike Stevenson [Iain]. He lives up in Birmingham – and it turns out he’s two streets away from my childhood home! He gives me a lift back to my parents’ house.”

“The first medical procedure I had to do was stitching a leg. I practised for ages and nailed it – but when it came to doing it on the prosthetic leg, it was a struggle. We had to use some camera trickery.”

“The first stunt I had to do was when Rash jumped on the bonnet of a car to save Gem. I had to be tied on as someone drove it and I slid from side to side!”

“I was quite nervous about my first episode being on, so I just watched it at home with my fiancée. We cooked some dinner and had a glass of wine – it was very low-key!”

10 totally true FACTS about... Beverley Callard

YOUR InsideSoap BRIEFING ON THE WOMAN BEHIND CORRIE'S LIZ...

1 On 28 March 1957, Beverley Jane Moxon (pictured here with her grandad) became the first child born to baker Clive Moxon and his wife Mavis. The family lived in Morley, Yorkshire and suffered a tragedy when Beverley's brother Clive died at birth in 1960. Mavis and Clive went on to have youngest child Stephanie, and Beverley remains close to her sister.

As well as releasing several workout DVDs, Bev has taught exercise classes for years. "I'm literally Jane Fonda – I've taught fitness classes for 28 years, three times a week," she says. "I'm a huge fan of exercise, but I don't do it every day. It's dangerous to be a fitness junkie – everything in moderation."

4 Although Bev has had major roles in The Peter Principle, The Practice and Two Pints Of Lager And A Packet Of Crisps, she's known best as the cobbles' Elizabeth Jane McDonald. She arrived on the Street in 1989 with husband Jim and twins Andy and Steve. Bev calls screen son Simon Gregson her "best friend in the world", and she introduced him to his wife, Emma. She set them up on a blind date at her pub, and now they are married with three sons!

2 She's famous for her Corrie alter ego, but Bev's career started across the Pennines in Emmerdale. In 1983 she joined the cast as Angie Richards, who worked in the local chip shop and dated Jackie Merrick – the secret love child of Jack Sugden, making him Robert and Victoria's half-sibling.

3 Although she's made a huge success of acting, Bev is passionate about her career in fitness, too.

5 Like Liz, Bev has had an eventful love life – she's been married four times. Her first hubby (1974–1978) was Paul Atkinson, the biological father of her daughter Rebecca, followed by economics teacher David Sowden (1980–1988). She had her second child, son Joshua, with third husband Steve Callard, whom she married in 1989 before divorcing in 2001. Bev has now found happiness with her fourth husband Jon McEwan, who she began dating in 2003 and eventually married in 2010.

8 Brave Beverley has spoken openly about her mental health struggles in recent years, recalling her battle with severe clinical depression. She was admitted to a psychiatric hospital in 2009 and received electroconvulsive therapy (ECT) to help treat her condition. “I tried [to take her own life] maybe half a dozen times, but it wasn’t a cry for help at all,” recalls Bev. “I’d known for quite a while that I wasn’t myself, but I didn’t really know what to do about it.” The actress is now an ambassador for mental health charity MIND, helping others.

6 She's had a lot of trauma in her life, but Bev is a very caring lady who owns three dogs that she dotes on. She adopted a rescue dog – an English bull terrier named Trev – in 2011, took in second bull terrier Madge in 2014, and then welcomed schnauzer Jeffery to the family last year. The adorable trio are often the stars of Bev's Twitter posts.

7 Acting talent runs in the family – Bev's daughter Rebecca has carved out a successful career, starring in The Borrowers, Sunburn, Blackout, Ordinary Lies and Detectorists. She also did a 2011 guest stint in Corrie, playing nasty Ruth Walsh – who bullied Fiz in prison.

9 When Corrie legend Anne Kirkbride, aka Deirdre, died in 2015, it was a devastating blow for Bev. She and 'Annie' were extremely close both on screen as Liz and

Deirdre, and in real life. “People used to call us ‘work sisters’ because we were just always together, even in our private lives,” relates Bev. “We used to go to Spain together with our husbands, and I truly miss her every single day.”

10 Bev got her first tattoo aged 59! She was inked in tribute to her husband Jon, and the tattoo depicts the tragedy and comedy masks, musical notes, a red heart, the date they were married, and their names. Aw!

“A lot changes in Hollyoaks in two years!”

AS KILLER COP RYAN FLEES PRISON, DUNCAN JAMES JOINS INSIDE SOAP FOR A LOOK BACK ON HIS ENJOYABLE TIME IN THE CHESTER SOAP...

It's a Monday morning, and Inside Soap is on the phone to Duncan from Blue, swapping notes on Caribbean cruises we've been on. So far, so showbiz...

“I've just got back from Miami!” the singer-turned-soap-star is telling us excitedly. “I wanted to do something special for my 40th, so I took my family away for a cruise around the southern Caribbean – and we had the best time ever! I came back to the UK and it was glorious sunshine, so I'm taking all the credit for bringing it with me.”

The star certainly needed a bit of R&R, having expended so much energy playing his killer alter ego in Hollyoaks. As Ryan goes on the run this week, it can't be long before his time in the show comes to an end – but Duncan tells us that it's been one of the best experiences of his life...

Viewers knows that Hollyoaks has a high death count!

Ryan has turned into a proper psycho! What's that been like for you to play?

It's been great! I've enjoyed the whole development of Ryan. I came into the show playing a straight policeman who was marrying the woman of his dreams and bringing up her children – fast-forward to now, and he's a closeted gay man who's killed multiple people! It's completely flipped. A lot can happen in Hollyoaks in two years.

What was your reaction when you learned Ryan was going to kill his Uncle Geoff?

I was really upset about that. I love Jimmy [Bradshaw, who played DS Thorpe], so it was a bit of a shock for both of us. But we had a lovely time working together, and really embraced those final scenes. We had such a laugh, even though they were pretty gruesome.

How did the fans react to that? Everyone loved DS Thorpe...

I don't think anybody saw it coming, to be honest! It's great when the show can hit the viewers with something they're not expecting like that. Geoff was a popular character, but the viewers know that Hollyoaks has a higher death rate than any other soap. That's what keeps people gripped.

Thorpe parked: Ryan bumped off his uncle

Can you talk us through what happens with Ryan this week?

Ryan has broken out of prison, so there's lots of stuff happening. And we got to go and film on location, which is always fun!

Whatever happens, we know Ryan's time in Hollyoaks will come to an end soon. How do you feel about that?

I've had such a lovely time here, and everyone's made me feel so welcome. I've bought a house here in Liverpool, and I love it so much that when I finish filming, I'm going to stay. I've fallen in love with the city.

Hollyoaks* has been your first major TV role. What's your biggest takeaway?

The fast pace has been something that I've really had to get my head around. I come from a theatre background, where you have weeks to rehearse – but here you get your scripts and have to learn them straight away, and once you've filmed it, you move right on to the next scene. That was challenging at first, but now I've trained my brain to the point where I can just pick up a scene instantly.

Would you like the door left open for Ryan's return?

Of course. But the thing with Hollyoaks is that you never know what will happen – they bring people back from the dead!

What's next for you?

Blue are about to go on tour with Steps and Aqua for six weeks. That starts in May in Cheltenham, and runs through to the end of July – so I've got a pretty busy summer ahead of me!

They ANSWER!

ADAM RICKITT
Hollyoaks' Kyle Kelly
...faces your questions!

Hollyoaks' Kyle has remained cool under pressure as he helps Sami exact revenge on James. But will star Adam be as calm while he faces your burning questions?

“How do you feel now that you’ve made it into the opening credits of Hollyoaks?”

It's great! I was only ever meant to be in the show for eight episodes, and it was because of the audience reaction that Kyle kept being brought back. To actually get the chance to develop the character and take him on this journey is just brilliant. You'll get to see a lot more of Kyle and who he is as a person in the future.

“What was it like when you were living in New Zealand to work on the soap Shortland Street?”

Amazing! I was meant to be there for six months, and ended up staying for five years! It's just the most ridiculous place in the world – in the morning you can go snowboarding, wrapped up in Eskimo clothes, and in the afternoon you can be surfing in Bermuda shorts in 30 degree heat. And in addition to that, it's one of the most beautiful places I have ever seen in my life.

“Did you like being part of the boy band 5th Story a few years ago, or did you prefer being solo?”

5th Story of our lives: Adam was part of the Big Reunion supergroup

I hated being a solo artist! The music industry was completely different when I first started out – it was all about record sales, so I spent my whole time doing promotion. It was horrible! But now artists make money from touring and doing live shows.

When we started 5th Story, we knew the band was only going to be short term because we all had our own stuff going on. It was like one long stag do – so I don't think my liver would have survived!

“Are you still in touch with any of your old Coronation Street cast mates?”

Every so often I'll see Jane Danson [Leanne] and Samia Longchambon [Maria], and I bump into Steven Arnold [Ashley Peacock] from time to time, too. So yeah, I am still in touch with some of them. You can always tell if they're real friends because you don't see each other for 20 years, and then when do, you're back into it like no time has passed.

"Would you ever go back to Corrie as Nick if they asked you?"

You never know! When I was 18 years old, being in Coronation Street was the most amazing experience of my life. But up until joining Hollyoaks, the most enjoyable job I'd ever done was Shortland Street, which is a soap on the other side of the world that's made on a shoestring. It was the character that made it so much fun for me. So I don't care what I'm doing, as long as I'm enjoying it.

"Is it true you thought about running for parliament? And are you still into politics?"

I really never was into politics. I was asked to stand for the Conservative Party by way of trying to get young people engaged in the voting process and politics – it was just after the statistic came out that more people voted for Big Brother than they did in the general election. If I had become an MP, I would have done my best for the local community, but I never had any ambitions to become prime minister or anything like that.

"You're turning 40 this month – congratulations! What are you doing to celebrate?"

This sounds really showbiz, so forgive me, but my wife Katy and I are going to Monaco for the weekend! I struck a deal with her that the money I would have spent on a party, I'm going to blow in the casino instead. We're heading off the week before my birthday – and then on my actual 40th I'm getting a tattoo.

"Where do you and your wife go on date nights?"

Oh, that's a hard one. Tallulah is by far the naughtiest – she's the bulldog – but that's because she's stupid! What's worse is that Rufus, the Australian cattle dog, is clever and will do things vindictively. So Tallulah is stupid naughty and Rufus is vindictive naughty, which is worse. You feel like he's testing you. My wife will come downstairs, and I'll be shouting in his face and he'll be barking in mine!

"Which of your dogs in the naughtiest, Tallulah or Rufus?"

"I love seeing the pictures of your date nights with your wife Katy on Twitter. Where's your favourite place to go?"

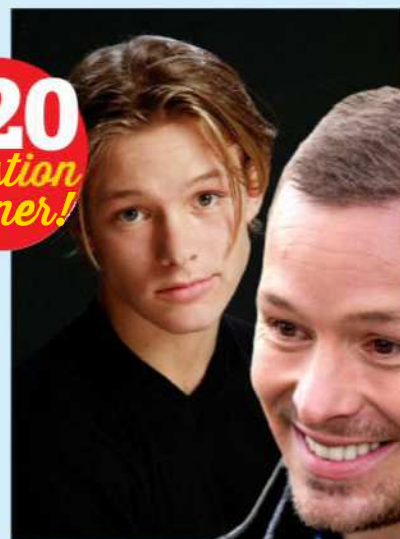

Where we live is great – it's a little village, but there are four cocktails bars, five pubs and 12 restaurants! So we usually go to The Botanist for cocktails first, then just see what we fancy for dinner. Katy's a correspondent for Good Morning Britain, so often she'll be away from home all week. That's why we decided to have a regular date night where we can get dressed up and go out – the two of us do it every Friday night, no matter what!

"Who would you rather be friends with in real life – your former Corrie character Nick Tilsley, your Shortland Street character Kieran Mitchell, or Kyle?"

...asks reader Daphne Corry from Brighton

Not Kieran – he killed his best friend! I know the audience in this country hasn't seen Kieran, but I did bring a lot of the characteristics from him into Kyle. Kieran was a rotter, and the audience should have hated him – but because we made him a loveable rogue, you couldn't help but like him. Kyle shares that. So I think if I was going out for a beer, it would have to be with Kyle.

WALLS OF SILENCE

A GIRL GOES MISSING FROM A BEAUTIFUL GATED COMMUNITY IN THIS TAUT SUBURBAN THRILLER...

This twisty-turny crime drama – from the twisty-turny brain of mystery writer Harlan Coben – is set in a bland English town, but packs Hollywood punch, thanks to the presence of Michael C Hall, better known for his roles in US hits Six Feet Under and Dexter. Once you get used to Hall's rather quirky English accent, he adds some real star value to this eight-part serial, which will be 'dropping' all in one go on Netflix this week.

Hall plays surgeon Tom Delaney, a single dad of teenage girls who is struggling to move on after his wife's recent death. They live in a beautiful gated community, and believe they're safe from the violence and trauma of life on the other side of their wall – but their luxury "village" has sordid secrets.

The drama kicks off when Tom's eldest daughter Jenny goes missing – along with her older boyfriend – after a wild house party. Beside himself with worry, Tom soon finds everyone has something to hide – not least his best friend Pete Mayfield, and even the police investigating the case.

We sat down with possible suspects Marc Warren, who plays Pete, and Hannah Arterton (DC Emma Castle) in order to find out more...

What was it that attracted you to the story?

Hannah Well, I've worked with Harlan before, on a series called The Five, so to work with him again was a no-brainer. He tells such amazing stories. Every time you get a script you forget you're an actor – you just race through the script to find out what happens next in the plot!

Marc The disappearance of your child is the worst thing a parent can imagine, so it's a rich seam for drama. It's also a great story, really well made, with a fantastic script and a great cast. And Michael C Hall is incredibly watchable – so it's all there!

Hannah I'm really looking forward to seeing it myself!

What are your characters' connections to Tom and his family?

Marc When we meet my character, Pete, and Tom, they are working in an operating theatre, where Tom is a surgeon and I'm his anaesthetist. But when Tom's daughter goes missing, the mystery begins. Who has done this? Is it someone from the gated community? My character helps along the way, but there are red herrings – and people you think are good turn out not to be.

Point blank: Tom is searching for his daughter

Hannah Even the police have their secrets. It's also indicated early on that my character has been moved to the force in this town for a reason. She has an agenda of her own... And that's all I'm going to say, or I'll get in trouble!

The show is set in a gated community – what do you think that adds to the story?

Hannah You see the beautiful houses and maybe feel a bit jealous – 'how the other half live' and all that. Whereas, behind the walls, is anyone really happy?

Marc With a gated community you keep people out – but what are you keeping in? People look at that luxury lifestyle with envy, but as with everything in life, when something looks too good to be true, there's a lie in there somewhere.

You filmed in Manchester – we assume Michael C Hall wasn't familiar with the area. Did you act as guides?

Marc I took him to Blackpool to see the Golden Mile. We walked to the Pleasure Beach, which was shut, and then we walked back again. This was on a wet Sunday in November. I'm sure you can picture it!

THE £100K DROP | Channel 4 WEEKDAYS

FIT TO DROP

DAVINA McCALL RETURNS WITH A NEW DAYTIME VERSION OF A QUIZ SHOW FAVOURITE...

The Million Pound Drop was a late-evening quizzing favourite of ours for many years, until it slipped quietly from the schedules in 2015. What always made it such fun and tense viewing was that it essentially flipped the usual quiz format on its head.

In most game shows, the contestants battle to build a prize fund. Here, they're desperately fighting to keep their money from, literally, slipping through their fingers, as they gamble it against multiple-choice questions.

Happily, that gripping format remains unchanged as the show moves to a new daily afternoon slot this week. Yes, there's been a big prize cut from £1m to £100k, but as host Davina McCall observes, the new jackpot is no small potatoes and certainly doesn't diminish the drama of the game...

"It's still a lot of money at stake," she tells us. "Our couples are playing with 40 bundles that each contain £2.5k in cash. That's a lot of money to hold in your hand, isn't it?"

Davina's right. £100k is a massive prize for a daytime show, especially when contestants on Pointless, for example, are sometimes fighting to take home a jackpot prize of a mere £1,000.

"It's a huge amount of money!" gasps Davina. "And what's great about the daytime slot is that you get continuity, as contestants roll over from one day to the next – it gives the show a real momentum."

It strikes us that there's a real art to setting the questions on The £100k Drop. The answers can't be so easy as to be obvious, but not so difficult that contestants can't make a well-informed guess.

"People playing the game are always surprised by what they know," says Davina. "The first thing that comes out of people's mouths is most often

THE EUROVISION SONG CONTEST SEMI-FINALS | BBC4 TUESDAY & THURSDAY

SING UP A STORM!

Is it really only a year since Salvador Sobral won Eurovision with the melancholic love song Amar Pelos Dios? Gosh. A lot has happened since – not least for Salvador himself, who is currently recovering from a heart transplant operation!

It was Portugal's first ever win and it means that the 2018 contest will be held in Lisbon on 12 May. The UK's entry is club-friendly stomper Storm, sung by SuRie: more on that in the next issue, when we'll be reporting on the big hitters of the Grand Final. This week, we have the two Eurovision semi-finals, which often prove more entertaining than the big night itself, thanks to some of the more eccentric entries battling to make it through. This year, regular semi-final host Scott Mills is joined by a new co-presenter: This Morning's Rylan Clark-Neal.

Hi Rylan! We hear you're a massive Eurovision fan.

What do you love about it?

It's the fact that it's so many countries coming together with such a positive message.

What are you most looking forward to about the semis?

I'm looking forward to having a laugh and being a bit cheeky,

THIS YEAR, THE EUROVISION CARNIVAL ROLLS INTO LISBON...

the right answer – and then they spend the next minute talking themselves out of it!”

And the format of the show is so exciting, even rival game show hosts want a piece of it...

“Philip Schofield says this is the one show he wished he hosted,” chuckles Davina. “He’d be bloody good at it. But over my dead body, Schofe! This one’s mine and I love it!”

as well as seeing what people bring to the stage. But my heart will be breaking for all the people who don’t actually qualify. It’s got to be awful to get this far and not make it through to the final!

As one of the ‘Big Five’ countries, the UK doesn’t have to qualify for the final. So which of the semi-final contests should we be looking out for?

I really like Benjamin from Sweden with Dance You Off, and Equinox from Bulgaria with Bones. Although I do think the UK stands a good chance this year. I met a few other entrants who were unwittingly humming along to Storm – and if other countries are subconsciously singing our song, then we must have a good song!

THE LATEST TV NEWS...

IN THE RING

ITV is bringing wrestling back to primetime TV with the new series WOS Wrestling, featuring some of the top names in the sport. Knockabout violence for all the family to enjoy!

MORE TALES

Netflix has announced a new chapter in the TV version of Armistead Maupin's beloved Tales Of The City series – again starring Laura Linney as Mary Ann and Olympia Dukakis as the loveably eccentric Anna Madrigal.

SENSE OF AN ENDING

Fans of the globe-trotting sci-fi thriller Sense8 series were left bereft when Netflix announced its premature cancellation – but at least a finale has been filmed in order to wrap up the saga. The special last episode will premiere on Netflix on 8 June.

NUL POINTS!

RELIVE THE HIGHS AND LOWS OF TRULY TERRIBLE EURO ENTRIES...

If you find yourself gripped by Eurovision fever this week, check out this three-hour spectacular celebrating the best of the worst of more than 60 years of musical mayhem.

Guests include singing sensation Sonia, who relives the heartache of being pipped at the post and knocked into second place in 1993 — alongside UK damp squibs including Scooch, Nicki French and Andy Abraham.

Meanwhile, our big successes – Brotherhood Of Man and Bucks Fizz – discuss what it takes to win out over a whole continent of competition.

Question master

From first winner Judith Keppel's handy king consort knowledge to the infamous coughing major, Who Wants To Be A Millionaire? kept tensions high and audiences taut during its 15-year run.

Now the popular quiz show returns to our screens for a special seven-night run with all the old favourites in place — and several new twists. So expect Fastest Finger First, 50/50, Ask The Audience and, of course, Phone A Friend. But contestants can now set their own safety nets after winning £1,000 — and they also have another lifeline: Ask The Host.

The host with this new burden of responsibility is Jeremy Clarkson, taking over from long-time presenter Chris Tarrant. He lets us know what to expect...

What is your favourite quiz show, and why?

Well, I would genuinely have to say Who Wants To Be A Millionaire?. It always was my favourite. But I am a fan of all quiz shows — BBC's Pointless is also really good.

What would be the worst topic of question someone could ask you as their 'Ask The Host' lifeline?

Golf. Golfers. Golf courses. The history of golf. I don't think I could name a single golfer. Cars, I could probably be reasonably helpful.

What will you be bringing to the show that's different from what's gone before?

Nothing hopefully. It's not a show that I feel needs changing. The new lifeline and the new moveable safety net are interesting adjustments to a strong format. But the truth is, once somebody has gone past even £100, I mustn't lose sight of the fact they're playing for large sums of money. I can't really mess about to the extent I would do on another show!

Out of yourself, Richard Hammond and James May, who do you think would get the furthest on the show?

James would never get to £1,000. He'd take three hours to answer every question. He'd get lost on the way to the studio and he doesn't know anything. Hammond's quite clever. It's the opposite to what you think on our programme: James is actually the stupid one; Hammond's the clever one. I would win by miles.

HI-DE-HI! | Gold 4.20PM

We love a good wallop of nostalgia at Inside Soap, but we're choosing this 1981 sitcom as our "pick of the day" not out of some dreamy hankering for the past, but because it still stands up as one of the funniest series ever made. This is a great chance to enjoy all the fun of life at Maplins Holiday Camp from the very start – as the cunning Yellowcoats run rings around well-meaning new entertainments manager Jeffrey Fairbrother.

SALAMANDER: BLOOD DIAMONDS | BBC4 9PM

It's our last date with our third-favourite Belgian detective, Paul Gerardi, as he moves in to crack the blood diamonds case. (Our top Belgian detectives are, of course, Hercule Poirot and Tintin – but not in that order.)

SINGS ELVIS | Yesterday 9PM

You'll be All Shook Up by this tribute to "The King", which rounds up a host of classic cover versions of Elvis hits from a host of hip-thrusting wannabes, including Sir Cliff Richard, Sir Tom Jones and, um, Mr Robbie Williams.

BAKE OFF: THE PROFESSIONALS | Channel 4 8PM

Rise to the occasion

When it comes to baking, Inside TV is happy enough with a Greggs pasty and five-for-£2 “donots” from a kiosk on Blackpool promenade. However, we do appreciate that there is a place for the finer things in life – such as the fancy-schmancy French patisserie on show at this top-drawer cookery contest.

The stars of this Bake Off spin-off are top pastry chefs Cherish Finden and Benoit Blin (great names to say out loud), who leave the hosts – GBBO contestant Liam Charles and pernickety comedian Tom Allen – in the shade. And it's not all fussy tartes aux fruits on show tonight. The showpiece bake is a retro Black Forest Gateau – thoroughly “reinvented”, of course. See you at Greggs!

Animal magic

THE DURRELLS | ITV 8PM

It's our final visit to the balmy – and barmy – island of Corfu for this series, as the Durrell family all find themselves falling under the spell, in very different ways, of a travelling circus. Larry meets a bearded lady, which should be novelty enough for any given evening, but his attention is soon drawn by her more traditionally beautiful friend – especially when she reveals herself to be a contortionist, and then demonstrates a few exclusive positions in private. Meanwhile, young Gerry – true to character – busies himself making sure that the circus animals are being well-treated.

CARNAGE | Sky One 8PM

Massive motors, pyrotechnics a-plenty and a lot of shouting and high-fives thrown in – no, not the latest Top Gear, but a rip-roaring new series from Sky. It's Mad Max meets Robot Wars as teams pit the weaponised cars they've painstakingly built in garages across the land in a series of knock-out tests, evading monster mutant trucks while bashing the living daylights out of each other. Tonight, we see a mighty Mini do battle with a souped-up... unicorn.

THE LEAGUE OF GENTLEMEN | Gold 11.40PM

The Pandemonium Carnival rolls into TV's weirdest town, and with it the first appearance of wife-collector extraordinaire Papa Lazarou – who strikes fear into the hearts of women everywhere with his chilling cry of “You're my wife now!”.

LAW AND ORDER: SPECIAL VICTIMS UNIT | Universal 10PM

With storylines “ripped from the headlines”, the US crime series continues to pack a powerful punch. Tonight's episode sees Rollins close to the edge as she races to rescue a girl whose father is holding her prisoner.

PETER KAY'S CAR SHARE UNSCRIPTED | BBC1 10PM

Motor mouths

The great joy of Peter Kay's Car Share has always been the – excuse the mixed metaphor – freewheeling atmosphere; the feeling that we're eavesdropping on a real-life conversation between co-workers John and Kayleigh. But that kind of spontaneous comedy only comes after months of careful scriptwriting and precision editing, with no word or look left to chance.

This special episode, however – an hors d'oeuvre for the “proper” finale episode coming later this month – is, we're promised, entirely improvised. Peter and his co-star Sian Gibson ad-libbed their way through a drive around Manchester – relying on their chemistry alone and reacting to whatever song came on the radio. It should make for a fascinating – and funny – half-hour.

DON'T Miss!

TRICKS OF THE RESTAURANT TRADE | Channel 4 8.30PM

Regional variations

Tonight's look behind the scenes of the front end of the food industry whisks us off to that most glamorous of dining locations – the motorway service station. There, the team ponders the key question we ask when we arrive at such places: why the hell is Burger King more expensive than on the high street? Elsewhere, we learn how airlines add flavour to their food, given that we lose 30% of our sense of taste when flying at 35,000ft. The answer, it turns out, is more complicated than merely adding a bucketful of salt.

BUILDING GIANTS: GIANT CRUISE SHIP | More4 9PM

In this latest episode of the big-is-definitely-better series, we meet ex-naval engineer Gaetano Rolando, who is overseeing the construction of one of the world's largest cruise ships

– a first for him. It's truly enormous, at more than 1,000ft long and with 2,200 cabins. Once complete, Meraviglia will carry 5,700 passengers. That's going to be a big queue for breakfast.

SUPergirl | Sky One 8PM

Our all-powerful superheroine isn't exactly in agreement, shall we say, with Imra over how to tackle a third Worldkiller. But they soon put their disagreements behind them to fight the evil that is Pestilence.

WESTWORLD | Sky Atlantic 9PM

There's a sensational "hook" at the start of this episode, when we find ourselves not so much in Westworld as "Eastworld" – a second creepy theme park based on the days of the British Raj in India. Watch out for the robot tiger!

THE SECRET LIFE OF 5 YEAR OLDS | Channel 4 8PM

A little naughty

"Who is the naughtiest person you can think of?" is the question put to cute-as-a-button five-year-old Luke B during this episode. He considers for a moment, blinks once and then gravely answers: "Donald Trump."

Matters of right and wrong dominate discussions in the nursery for this two-part investigation of how children develop a moral sense. A dice game with a sought-after prize of jelly beans is used to test whether – or rather, how quickly – the kids will cheat. It's fascinating to see which of the children bend the rules and which appoint themselves as moral enforcers. Can it be the case that our lifelong moral boundaries are set at such an early age?

Future tense

THIS TIME NEXT YEAR | ITV 8PM

Until Dr Emmett Brown picks us up in his DeLorean, this feel-good series is as close as Inside TV is going to get to experiencing time travel. This Time Next Year has a great trick at its heart. A guest makes a pledge to change their life, and then host Davina McCall steps 12 months into the 'future' to see the result. (The promise was made and recorded last year, you see!) It's so neat, but it does mean that poor Davina is banned from ever changing her hairstyle. Tonight, couple Jess and Paul hope for a baby, while the parents of young Charlie – who has Cerebral Palsy – pledge to have him walking by this time next year.

MY FLOATING HOME | More4 9PM

Here at Inside Soap, we get seasick if we so much as walk past a bottle of Evian, so the thought of bobbing along the Grand Union Canal holds little appeal. That said, we appreciate the zeal of the would-be water-dwellers tonight: especially Karen, who is trying to squeeze a king-size bed and twin showers into her floating home. It's a houseboat lovey, not the RMS Queen Mary.

PORRIDGE | Gold 8.40PM

More catch-it-from-the-start sitcom brilliance from Gold, as we join new prisoner Lennie Godber on his first day at Slade Prison, sharing with hilarious old lag Norman Stanley Fletcher. Just as funny today as it was in 1974.

WHO DO YOU THINK YOU ARE? USA | W 9PM

The star of tonight's edition of the Stateside version of the genealogy show is Lord Of The Rings actress Liv Tyler, who makes shocking discoveries about her family history. (She's heir to Rivendell and the three Elvish rings of Middle Earth.)

ONE BORN EVERY MINUTE | Channel 4 9PM

Push it real good

Tough day at work? Have the kids run you ragged? Or maybe your partner has let you down by failing to empty the dishwasher again even after 500 times of asking? Whatever it is that's got your goat today and left you in a rage, then we have the perfect antidote: One Born Every Minute and a great big cry.

If a more honest and heartfelt TV show exists anywhere in the world, then we are yet to see it. There's something utterly fundamental about the joy – and, yes, sometimes tragedy – to be found in these stories from the maternity ward of Birmingham's Women's Hospital. It moves us to tears each and every week.

Tonight, we meet Laura and Pete, who were friends for years before love blossomed. They already have nine children between them, and now they're waiting for their first together. Meanwhile, Urwah and Nadhia are expecting their fifth child, and praying for an easy delivery. Make sure you have the tissues ready!

FIRST DATES | Channel 4 10PM

Ketan, a telecoms analyst, has high-functioning autism. He likes his certainties in life, so has prepared a list of the positives and negatives of dating him. On the plus side: "Quicker. Smarter. Can do the night shift if we have kids, cos I'll probably be awake anyway." In the minus column: "I'll regularly wake you up at 4am for sex." Hmm. If he can compromise to 7am, then we could probably work with that. However, we're not lucky enough to be on a date with Ketan. That honour falls to Titian-haired Brodie, who is "looking for a man with quirks". Can she change his dating fortunes?

TASKMASTER | Dave 9PM

Liza Tarbuck is very high on our list of TV Stars We Would Like To Be Mates With. She just seems so fun and normal and... worldly-wise. We first fell in love with her back when she presented the brilliant "moral dilemma" show Without Prejudice? and she brings the same warmth and sincerity to this new series of Taskmaster – already TV's funniest game show. This week, our Liza memorably demonstrates her hatred of small toy men.

SECRETS OF BRITAIN | Yesterday 8PM

Did you know that Westminster Abbey is home to more than 500 corpses? (And the Palace of Westminster holds 800 more when the House of Lords is in session.) Find out more about Britain's most powerful postal district in this lively doc.

THE 100 | E4 9PM

Telly's top Sexy People In Space show returns for its fifth series. Following the cliffhanger ending to last season, Clarke is struggling to survive on the surface of devastated Earth, while her friends in orbit find a beacon of hope.

RED APE: SAVING THE ORANGUTAN | BBC2 9PM

King of the jungle

There's been lots of froth and fun in our TV choices this week – quiz shows, Eurovision, competitive cake baking – but every diet needs its roughage and so, on Thursday, it's time to get serious.

This superb documentary looks at the threats facing the orangutan, one of our closest wild relatives (in fact, they seem positively civilised and domesticated compared with some of Inside TV's actual family.)

In the past 20 years, more than half of Borneo's orangutans have been lost. They are now on the critically endangered list. Babies are trapped in the jungle and sold online for a pittance – but at a terrible price for the future of the species.

This programme follows International Animal Rescue, and its desperate, last-ditch attempt to save the orangutan.

"They are incredibly intelligent and one of the most remarkable creatures on the planet," says one brave crusader. "You can't look one in the eye and not see another living being staring back at you."

GREAT ART | ITV 10.45PM

Such is his popularity, not only can most people recognise a David Hockney painting at a glance, they can also recognise David Hockney at a glance. In the art world, that's a very special kind of fame. Assuredly Britain's most adored artist, Hockney is also a global sensation and, even at the age of 80, still produces blockbuster new exhibitions all around the world. His talent is undimmed by age – quite the opposite, in fact – and he shows no evidence of slowing down. This documentary offers privileged access to both the artist and his latest work.

SCANDAL | Sky Living 10PM

Beneath the surface glitz and the thick crust of melodrama, Scandal has been quite an educational show, in its own way. For example, who knew that becoming the first female Ruler of the Free World would have such a negative effect upon one's love life? "There's a famine in my lady bits!" wailed President Mellie recently. Whether this fact has any bearing tonight, as we gather for the last ever episode, remains to be seen.

YOUNG SHELDON | E4 8.30PM

Even if you don't enjoy The Big Bang Theory, this "prequel" show set in the 1980s is well worth your time. It's funny, heartwarming, and each episode is less than 20 minutes long – so they really pack in the gags.

THE GOOD FIGHT | More4 9PM

We can't get enough of this show. It's the most mature and witty hour of the TV week. Tonight, Diane is called to defend a prostitute who claims to have intimate knowledge of one of Donald Trump's more peculiar pécadillos.

THE BRIDGE | BBC2 9PM

DON'T Miss!

Last crossing

Probably the most famous thing to come out of Scandinavia since the Vikings – well, since Lego at the very least – moody thriller series The Bridge has reached its fourth and, we're warned, final series.

If you're unfamiliar with the show, it's possibly because the first three seasons were broadcast on BBC4. However, you'll certainly have been touched by 'The Bridge effect' in some way, as just about every UK serial-killer telly drama made in the past few years has tried desperately to catch its bleak mood – most notably, of course, it's direct UK remake, The Tunnel.

However, The Bridge remains not just the original, but also the best, so don't miss this opportunity to join in the "fun", even if it's a little late in the day.

What do you need to know? Well... Austistic Swedish detective Saga Norén is in prison for murder (but don't worry about that), when she is called upon to investigate another killing on the Øresund Bridge between Sweden and Denmark. Meanwhile, Saga's Danish colleague – and simmering love interest – Henrik Sabroe is looking for his own missing daughters.

THE ONE SHOW: NHS PATIENTS AWARDS SPECIAL | BBC1 7PM

Regional variations

One of Britain's greatest social achievements, the National Health Service celebrates its 70th birthday in July. Arriving at the party an unfashionable couple of months early are One Show hosts Matt Baker and Alex Jones, who are here to celebrate the achievements of NHS staff who go above and beyond to deliver outstanding care to patients and families. The award winners tonight are all nominated by One Show viewers, with the prizes presented by a host of famous-ish faces.

CLASSIC CORONATION STREET | ITV3 6.25AM

As part of our ongoing public service to you, gentle reader, we feel it's our responsibility every couple of months to remind you of the series of repeats of 1980s Corrie on ITV3. (Yes, they are shown at weird times, but that's what Sky and TIVO boxes are for.) Today, Vera Duckworth is sick of her boy Terry "playing Hamlet" as usual, and evil Alan Bradley is back on the Street. Boo! Hiss!

THE BILL | Drama 11.40PM

And while we're on the subject, don't miss the Golden Ages episodes of The Bill over on Drama. Wicked DS Don Beech's reign of terror at Sun Hill is slowly coming to a climax – it's a great place to join (or rejoin) the action.

MODERN FAMILY | Sky One 8.30PM

It's that point of the season when Mitchell and Claire's flaky mum Dede – wittily played by Shelley Long – makes her annual visit. Meanwhile, the Dunphy kids use their mum's spa day as a chance to offload bad news.

IN and OUT

We spin soap's revolving door...

OUT LEE RYAN

(Harry 'Woody' Woodward, EastEnders)
Lee Ryan has finished filming as Woody – taking his dressing-room door plaque as a souvenir. "I'll miss the cast and crew and everyone that works on the show," he posted on Instagram. "I made some amazing friends and had a blast! Thanks for the memories guys!" June

LOUIS EMERICK (Mike Thornberry, Corrie)

OUT Actor Louis Emerick has explained that he was only ever meant to be on the cobbles for three months. Taking to Twitter to reply to a disgruntled fan, Louis wrote: "I knew the deal when I joined, and hey, the door will be left open – Mike Thornberry ain't ready to give up on Liz yet." But who will she romance now? June

RAEHELLE BANNO (Olivia Fraser Richards, Home and Away)

OUT Raechelle has already finished filming, and recently jetted off to LA – where she was reunited with former co-star Matt Little (VJ). Summer

OLIVIA BROMLEY (Dawn, Emmerdale)

IN Emmerdale fans thought they spotted a spark between Dawn and Ross when he took pity on the drug user's plight and helped her out last week. And there's more ahead for the two of them as his crusade to bring Simon to justice continues – but will Dawn help Ross hurt the dealer? And could things hot up between the pair? Soon

THE EX FILES!

What are the one-time stars of soap up to now?

GET CARTER

We've known him for upbeat roles in Hollyoaks (Lee Hunter) and in Emmerdale as Bob's son Jamie, but actor Alex Carter is heading into serious territory with a role in ITV's crime thriller called Dark Heart. The gritty drama will be on our screens later this year.

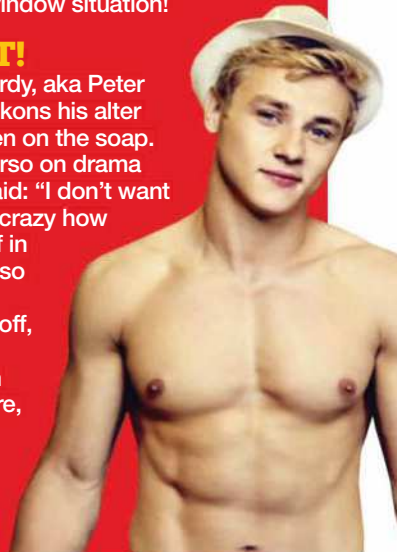

PAT'S BACK (SORT OF..)

If you're missing Pat Butcher on Albert Square (and who isn't?), your window of opportunity has arrived! Actress Pam St Clement is currently starring in a series of ads for window company SafeGlaze UK, playing not one but two characters – it's a win-window situation!

SIMPLY THE CHEST!

Ex-EastEnders actor Ben Hardy, aka Peter Beale from 2013 to 2015, reckons his alter ego was shirtless far too often on the soap. Referring to not baring his torso on drama The Woman In White, Ben said: "I don't want to do it for no reason. It was crazy how often I had to take my top off in EastEnders! One scene was so contrived – I had to take my hoody off, to take my T-shirt off, to put my hoody back on." And if anyone is wishing Ben changes his mind in the future, you might start hoping he doesn't! "I want to do a role where I have to be fat, just so I can tuck into a pizza!"

WORTH A FLUTTER

Former Hollyoaks actor Paul Danan (Sol Patrick) stars in this dark comedy, which tells the story of two flawed men who fall in love with the same woman – but will she choose to gamble on either of them? The play is showing at The Hope Theatre in London until 19 May – for tickets and further info, visit www.thehopetheatre.com

BOX-SET

STRIKING OUT – COMPLETE SERIES ONE AND TWO

This gripping new legal drama stars Amy Huberman, and follows a high-flying solicitor who sets up her own law practice from the back of a café. Aided by her friends and associates, she becomes a force to be reckoned with.

BOOK

THE HOUSE SWAP

by Rebecca Fleet
When Caroline and her husband Francis swap their flat for a place in London, it soon becomes clear that the person they've swapped with is someone Caroline used to know – and someone she'd very much hoped to forget...

STAR CHOICE

Coronation Street's Georgia Taylor (Toyah)

"I'm obsessed with Three Billboards Outside Ebbing, Missouri, as the performances are extraordinary. Frances McDormand is an amazing actress anyway, but Sam Rockwell is just staggeringly good in it. It's a tough watch, but it really moved me."

DVD

JUMANJI: WELCOME TO THE JUNGLE

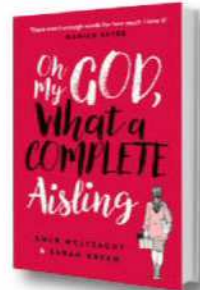

When four kids find an old video game, they are drawn into its jungle setting – and soon discover that you don't just play Jumanji, you must survive it. Stars Dwayne Johnson, Jack Black, Kevin Hart and Karen Gillan.

BOOK

OH MY GOD, WHAT A COMPLETE AISLING

by Emer McLysaght & Sarah Breen

Aisling is waiting for her boyfriend of seven years to pop the question – but when a surprise break-up leads her to drop everything and move to the Big Smoke, what will happen next?

HITS & MISSES!

WHAT'S HIT THE BULLSEYE RECENTLY – AND WHAT'S FALLEN WIDE OF THE MARK?

Revealed! The secret of how Max manages to reel in the ladies on that very first meeting: he blows cigarette smoke in their faces. What could possibly be more alluring?

And to think there was a time when Kate and Carla had no inkling whatsoever that they were sisters. They couldn't be more alike!

When it comes to fake magazines in Hollyoaks, we've never enjoyed one as much as we've enjoyed Uranus.

Kudos to the Carters for always being available to shoot a last-minute scene to tie in with current affairs, such as the Royal birth. No other soap really competes with EastEnders for this sort of silliness.

It's good to see Billy with some colour back in his cheeks. Rehab – aka Daniel Brocklebank's much-Instagrammed holiday to Thailand – has clearly done him the world of good.

We love Bernie and Tiffany's friendship. There's a realness to it that reminds us of the glory days Sharon and Michelle, or Bianca and Tiff (v1.0).

The irritating-comedy prison cellmate always ends up a regular character. Tash may be a thorn in Liv's side now, but in four months she'll be her new best mate and living in the village. (We bet you 50p.)

We have to wonder why Emmerdale is so obsessed with Jimmy's private parts? If we're not having to look at his bare backside, we're hearing about his limp you-know-wotsit. It has to stop!

This clearly wasn't Eva's first FaceTime rodeo. She had her phone at optimum tilt for the most flattering video-call angle.

Did we miss the moment when Frank and Megan became a proper couple again? Since he cheated and she framed him for fraud, their relationship has never been better!

The news that Phil is away visiting Grant in Portugal took us back to when the Mitchell boys hit Spain together in 1995. Do they still bowl around in tiny shorts when abroad? We wouldn't put it past them...

BULLSEYE!

Michael Parr's gutsy performance – coupled with remarkable work from the Dales make-up department – has really given us something to think about in the aftermath of the senseless acid attack on Ross. However, it frustrated us to have to watch perpetrator Simon walk free with a £100k pay-off. It's surely not the message Emmerdale wants to send? We still hope that justice will be done...
